NO. 180—SEVENTY-FIRST YEAR | VICTORIA, BRITISH COLUMBIA, TUESDAY, JULY 9, 1929 | TWENTY-TWO PAGES

U.S. PRESIDENT OPPOSES INCREASES IN TARIFF

FIRES BEGIN DEVASTATION UPON ISLAND

Dangerous Situation Reported at Many Points—Sylvester Farmhouse, Near Shawnigan, Burned

LANGFORD LAKE SCENE OF FIRE

Outbreak Occurs in Slashings of Victoria Lumber Company at Camp Ten, Robertson River

THE sudden change in weather from cloudy and somewhat humid conditions to the heat of the past few days has brought with it a very dangerous situation with respect to forest fires. From the Forest Branch of the Department of Lands there has gone out a warning for the utmost care to be exercised while the present conditions prevail.

It is suggested that the utmost vigilance be exercised in the matter of dropping cigarette stubs and supposedly burned matches. During the weather that now prevails fire is likely to start under the least provocation and too great care cannot be exercised.

HOUSE BURNED

A heavy sufferer by the various outbreaks yesterday the Sylvester Feed Company, of this city, whose farmhouse located on the large farm operated by the Sylvester brothers was burned to the ground, with a large part of the contents. The farm is situated on the Cameron-Tagart Road running from the Island Highway to Shawnigan Lake.

The house was occupied by Mr. W. B. Sylvester and his family, and there were present also a number of visitors. Without warning a fire started, evidently on the roof, and under the conditions of the weather the two-story house of nine rooms was in a very short time reduced to ashes.

In spite of the fact that there was a water reservoir located there and a line of hose was carried, nothing could be done to extinguish the flames. The stream of water carried over the house but seemed, under the excessively hot and dry conditions, to have no effect upon the flames.

The house was valued at about $6,000, while the contents were worth about $2,000 more.

There was some insurance carried but, while a small part of the contents was got out, the loss will be at least a third of the value.

Fortunately, through the efforts of those on the spot, the fire was kept from the barn and other buildings. About one hundred tons of hay, which was in the field, did not suffer.

A fire supposed to have been started from embers carried from the burning house started yesterday

Street Car Jumps Track Upon Bridge

OTTAWA, July 8.—Terrified passengers scrambled from a Hull Electric Railway street car this afternoon when it left the track on the Interprovincial bridge and was brought to a stop only a few feet from the edge of the structure.

The railing along the edge of the bridge was damaged and a few more feet would have carried the car over a fifty-foot drop into the Ottawa River. No one was hurt.

NEWER BERRY COMES INTO WIDE FAVOR

British Sovereign Variety Threatens to Dethrone Magoon From Pride of Place

GROWERS SEEK AVAILABLE PLANTS

Preparations are now on foot for the replacing in many instances of the Magoon strawberry plantations with British Sovereigns, which variety is finding greater favor on the Prairie market. On Vancouver Island a number of berry growers are making preparations for the securing of plants for the coming Spring, which would supply a full crop in 1931.

The Department of Agriculture, in view of the situation, is lending all the assistance that it can in the matter. A member of the staff is on the Mainland at present in connection with the duties of his office. He has been interested during his tour of the Lower Mainland, where most of the British Sovereigns are grown, to be on the lookout for the supply of plants for this variety, so that it may be known just what number will be available for distribution.

The department feels that if there is to be a general campaign in setting out the British Sovereign, that it would be well for the Government to take some steps that will make for something like an equality of distribution among the various parts where the attempt is being made to replace with this more favored variety. In this way the different parts of the province seeking to make the change would all have the opportunity to get supplied proportionately.

From Vancouver Island representatives are now on the Mainland making inspections themselves, preparatory to deciding what to recommend in their own district. It may be noted that all the British Sovereign plants available on the Mainland will be readily picked up for the purpose of furthering interests of the industry.

PLANE BOUND TO GREENLAND NOT LOCATED

Amphibian Aircraft Trying Arctic Route to Europe Believed "To Be Somewhere East of Hudson Bay

ADVERSE WEATHER REPORTS RECEIVED

OTTAWA, July 8.—Somewhere in the barren lands of Northeastern Quebec, the British-English Union Bowler was believed to be a yet tonight. The monster amphibian plane owned by The Chicago Tribune was in the air at 3 10 o'clock this afternoon, presumably, if weather conditions permitted, on the Greenland coast.

Since the afternoon audition of the motors hum, the radio station at Port Burwell has been silent, and to indicate the plane's movements, it was stated here tonight. The motor hum was heard by the radio station at Cape Hopes Advance, west of Port Burwell on Hudson Straits.

Weather reports transmitted for the benefit of the Chicago-British flyers today were adverse. Thoughts of sending a rescue party sped to the aid of the Union Bowler were temporarily set at rest today when it was indicated that the plane had once again taken to the air. Should the occasion arise, however, it is certain that an air expedition could hurry into the north on short notice.

SOUTHERN STAR SAFE

LIMA, Peru, July 8.—The airplane Southern Star, which had not been heard from since it left Pirane Field, Paraiana, early yesterday morning, landed at Las Palmas Airfield at 3.40 p.m. today.

TOBACCO IS ACQUIRED BY FIRM IN B.C.

Provincial Concern Takes Over Stock in Hand, and That Now Growing in Two Areas

EXTENSIVE TESTS ARE CONDUCTED

Minister of Agriculture Says Blend of Tobacco Can Be Produced in B.C. of High Quality

THE Government of B.C. has disposed of its tobacco crop, which has been passing through blending under an expert in that line, and not only has this been done, but the situation with regard to the tobacco growing has been taken care of by a well-known growing firm taking over the whole business as it stands, with the intention of preparing that on hand for the market, and also assuming responsibility for the crop now growing. The result will be that the Government, having demonstrated what can be done with the tobacco raised in the Okanagan, and the Bumas areas, is now relieved of all further responsibility in the matter.

"We are well over now", said Hon. W. Atkinson, Minister of Agriculture, in discussing the matter yesterday.

CHARACTER OF CROP

Under the arrangements that have been entered into there is a stock of about 6,000 pounds of fully matured tobacco of different varieties, Virginia, Burley and Havana, which is already for blending, and of this has been raised in Okanagan, and part in Bumas. Under the charge of Mr. Henry P. Behnke, seven a series of experiments were carried out, looking to the best proportions in which to blend the various varieties, and also with respect to the place of origin, whether Okanagan or Bumas.

The work of Mr. Behnsen, who has spent a lifetime in the business, has received the highest praise. As a result it has been found, says Mr

Judge and Jury May Take Plane To Eskimo Trial

OTTAWA, July 8.—The possibility that a judge, jury and counsel might be taken to the Arctic by airplane to conduct a murder trial appeared today. Judge Dubuc, of Edmonton, will preside at the trial of an Eskimo at Aklavik.

Joseph Clarke, a lawyer appointed as defence counsel, may go north while en route by boat and has been replaced by Mr. Justice Edmonton. It is now possible the trip will be shortened by the use of plane.

Australian Plane Arrives in Greece On Way to London

ATHENS, July 8.—Captain Charles Kingsford-Smith and his companions arrived at Tatoi airport here today. Kingsford-Smith and their airplane Southern Cross flew after a stopover flight from Bagdad.

The Australian aviators, who are making a flight from Melbourne to London, expect to leave for the British capital tomorrow morning.

They will try to make it in a single hump, and if they succeed so will set a new record for the 8,000-mile London flight.

Work of Restoration Nears Completion

THE final stage in the long task of restoring and renovating St. Paul's Cathedral, London, England, has been entered upon. The work of restoration was begun in 1913, but it was not until 1924 that the big task began of grouting the eight main piers supporting the dome, thus adding, the engineers estimate, 200 or 300 years to the life of the great building. Since the first spread was made for funds in 1913 a sum of approximately $2,500,000 has been raised. Above is an excellent view of St. Paul's Cathedral, which is a great memorial to the work of Sir Christopher Wren.

KING DEFERS DEPARTURE TO SANDRINGHAM

Physicians State That General Health Is Good and Strength Maintained, but Local Trouble Persists

EXAMINATION BY X-RAY YESTERDAY

LONDON, July 8.—It is understood postponement of the King's journey with the Queen to Sandringham, Norfolk, today was decided upon less than three hours before the special train was due to leave King's Cross for the East Coast.

In any event the journey was postponed for a few days to permit of an X-Ray examination of His Majesty's throat, as official bulletins saying that the sinus in the right side had not made satisfactory progress. That there was no cause for alarm was stressed in the bulletin, which also said: "The King slept fairly well and has been refreshed by the ceremony of the Thanksgiving service. His Majesty's general health is good. In order to gain the assistance of further X-Ray examination, His Majesty's departure for Sandringham has been postponed for a short period."

The examination was made this afternoon, but no later bulletin was issued. Dr Graham Hodgson, radiologist, Lord Dawson of Penn, Sir Stanley Hewett, Dr. Hugh M. Rigby and Dr Henry L. Martin were present.

The news came to everybody as most disappointing after Sunday's celebrations, though it cannot be denied there were some at least who saw His Majesty in the Abbey and were not prepared to accept what appears in some of the English papers today about his looking so well. There is no rise in His Majesty's temperature and trouble is purely local. It is stated

B.C. Electric Officials Meet Island Municipal Leaders About Utilities

THE B.C. Electric Railway is anxious to provide improvements to the areas in which the National Utilities Corporation has franchises, and which have recently been taken over by the B.C. Electric. Mr A. T. Cowper, K.C., vice-president, and Mr. S. J. Fraser, manager of the light and power department, have returned from a visit to Up-Island points, in which officials in the various localities met the officials with the view of ascertaining what the future expenditure will be, and what steps are taken.

Any action that may be taken will be subject to the result of the survey voted by the citizens to the National Utilities Corporation, Mr. Coward had the opportunity of meeting the two councils successively, and was able to promise some improvements. He pointed out that the policy would be "Co-operation" with the local authorities.

In these cases, as with the fifth company acquired, the Parksville, Light, Power & Heating Company, the company's engineers are looking over the situation. Any action that may be taken will be subject to the result of the survey

Peoples of Empire Unite With King in Services of Thanksgiving and Praise

LONDON, July 8.—Westminster Abbey was the scene of an impressive service held yesterday which will have its place in history. King George and Queen Mary joined with their people, "in thanksgiving to Almighty God for His good providence whereby our most gracious Sovereign Lord has been restored to health and strength, to the comfort of the whole realm, and for the signal of love and loyalty of his people made manifest in the time of trouble."

Probably there never was a more simple royal ceremony on a great occasion than that of yesterday. Save for a few rows of gilt chairs in the presbytery, the furnishings of the Abbey were hardly different from those which may be seen on almost any Sunday of the year. The choir members were disposed on the screen around the organ console so that their place might be available for official personnages. In an inconspicuous aisle was the famous band of the Grenadier Guards, which made a notable contribution to the music.

There was a real desire to render as many seats in the Abbey as possible available for the people at large. So soon after daybreak a line began to form of men and women who had traveled mostly from the remote suburbs. When the west door was opened at 9.30 they were admitted in little batches, but all accommodations were taken in a few minutes.

There was very little color in the dress of either the men or women. The chief exception was a little group of people from India.

The waiting congregation, however, had little to distract its attention, for following His Majesty's ex-

Mr. Churchill To Make Visit To Dominion

LONDON, July 8.—Mr Winston Churchill, formerly Chancellor of the Exchequer in the Conservative government, is to visit Canada. The announcement of his visit came in a roundabout way tonight through Mr J. B Thomas, Lord Privy Seal, at a banquet at the Mansion House.

"Winston," Mr Thomas said "has told me he is going to Canada. I reminded him that I would take him to get back and I said to myself, 'There is an excellent chairman for you while Winston is out of the country.'"

Calgary Stampede Attracts Visitors From Europe and U.S.

CALGARY, July 8.—Calgary's annual Stampede, which begins on Monday, has brought more thousands of Dominion visitors from the Canadian Pacific Railway Company's system than ever before. several sections have poured a continuous stream of humanity into Calgary from east, west and south for the past days, and a week ending crowd of more than 50,000 persons saw the big stampede parade on Monday morning that marked the opening of the famous now town of range land days.

One feature of the stampede this year has its the extraordinary number of visitors from overseas, with a greatly increased contingent from the United States. Hotel accommodation, of course is at a premium, and private citizens have had to cope to the rescue of hundreds of stampede seers.

TWO KILLED IN MONTREAL PLANE CRASH

Chief Instructor Captain Goldie and Flying Student C. H. Dowd Lose Lives Near St. Hubert Airport

CRAFT NOSEDIVES AT LOW ALTITUDE

MONTREAL, July 8.—Captain A. E. Goldie, chief instructor to the Montreal Light Aeroplane Club, and C. H. Dowd, of this city, a flying student and member of the club, were killed early this afternoon near St. Hubert airport, when their plane, a Gypsy Moth, went into a nose dive, crashed to the ground and burst into flames. Eyewitnesses of the accident stated that the plane was only a few hundred feet in the air when it was noticed going into a turn, banking only slightly. Then the nose suddenly went down and the machine crashed to the ground.

By-Election in Quebec

STREMI, Que., July 8.—No fight will be waged by the Conservatives in the Federal by-election that will take place towards the end of this month for the seat of La Prairie-Napierville, which became vacant a few weeks ago through the death of Roch Lanctot, Liberal member for the division. It was the decision reached by delegates at a convention convoked for the purpose of choosing a candidate.

International Congress Of Nurses Is Welcomed by Government of Canada

MONTREAL, July 8.—The greatest congress of women ever held in Canada, and one the most representative that has taken place in any country, opened here today when with the first session of the sixth quadrennial congress of the International Council of Nurses, presided over by Miss M. D. Gage More than 6,500 delegates and visitors are attending

The presidents' address, which opened the proceedings contained the main theme of the congress at once, with a review of the aims and scope of the council. It was followed by tonight reading.

"Make it clear to your communities," the president's message ran, "that with better preparation you will give better service and the public will support you."

Hon. Fernand Rinfret, Secretary of State, extended a welcome on behalf of the Government and the Prime Minister of Canada. "There is no group," he said, "that we would sooner welcome than your delegates today. Your work is of the loftiest order."

Mr. Hoover Battles Proposed Duties on Canadian Products

Administrative Forces at Washington Strive to Line Up Senators and Representatives Against Prohibitive Tariff on Cattle and Dairy Products From Canada

Clash Between President And Followers Predicted

WASHINGTON, July 8.—New indications that the administration is working to prevent tariff complications between this country and Canada were afforded today when it became known that the State Department is not only giving attention to Canadian protests against increases of rates, but is seeking to line up Senators against the House raises on sugar and feeds' cattle in which Canadian livestock interests are concerned.

Secretary of State Stimson has taken up the subject with some of the Western Republican Senators, and is understood to be seeking to avoid any action which might interfere with trade with Canada, and to regard the increased rates on cattle as especially important in this connection.

THE PRESIDENT

This reflects a similar attitude on the part of the President, who is also concerned over the House rates on butter and dairy products. With the American Farm Bureau Federation pressing for higher rates on cattle and some dairy products than the House rates, and many of the Western Senators backing it up, it is difficult to see how a clash between Western agricultural Senators and the Administration can be avoided. Meanwhile, Democratic Senators are demanding that the protests of other countries, including Canada, be laid before the full membership of the finance committee and the Senate.

TWO ISSUES ARE TO HAVE ARGUMENT

Appeals to Privy Council Will Affect Produce Marketing Act and Log Export Tax

HEARING EXPECTED DURING AUTUMN

It is anticipated that two appeals will be heard from decisions affecting the status of provincial acts by the Privy Council this Fall. One of these is to decide the right of the Province to enact the Produce Marketing Act, and which has been set for argument at the sitting of the Privy Council this Fall.

In this appeal Mr. H. B. Robertson, K.C., of Vancouver, will represent the Province. Preliminary to the arguing of the right of the province to pass such legislation there will be argued the point as to whether an appeal lies to the Privy Council in this case. It will be argued that in effect the case is one of a contributory nature, and therefore not falling within the right of appeal to the Privy Council.

No word has been received from London as yet by the Attorney-General's Department as to whether there is to be accorded the special leave asked for, to take an appeal directly from the decision of Chief Justice Morrison, of the Supreme Court of the province, declaring ultra vires the collection of fees levied against logs being exported from the province for manufacture in a foreign country. If this leave is granted, the argument of the case before the highest court of the Empire, will also proceed this Fall. The Province will be represented by Mr Geoffrey Lewis, K.C., of London, who has on other occasions represented British Columbia before the Privy Council.

PLANE IS OFF ON PERILOUS OCEAN FLIGHT

Pathfinder Leaves in Fog Upon Attempt to Cross Atlantic—No Lifebelts or Radio Carried

SUPPLY OF FUEL CUT TO MINIMUM

OLD ORCHARD, July 8. — Two Americans and one Frenchman from starting across the Atlantic to the west-bound Pathfinder, as they attempted a takeoff tonight were forced to over the plane, leaving the monoplane Pathfinder to-

Roger Q. Williams, pilot, and Lewis A. Yancy, navigator, determined on the takeoff even though heavy fog covered the beach and restricted visibility to less than a quarter of a mile. The only report as to the progress of the plane, which was in the air at 11.45 a.m., Eastern standard time, was from Lanesboro, N. S., a point on the coastguard, who accompanied the Pathfinder in an amphibian plane. The last sight of the Bleriot-based plane an hour later seventy-five miles off Portland highlight, Blue was then going "fine." Lack of reports of the progress of the silver and green plane did not discourage friends, nor Mrs. Lindbergh, wife of the navigator. The fog was general all along the coast.

GREAT RISKS TAKEN

The plane was loaded with gasoline—fifty-five gallons less than the scheduled 500—to carry it the 4,200 miles to the Bretigni City, along the plotted course. Before the flight the plane was ordered at the last minute, apparently because the flyers feared they would not get the sight off the sands. The aviators must get through to land before the tide ship if forced down, or there will be but little hope of their rescue. They carried no flares, no lifebelts, no radio, only two compasses. The normal cruising capacity of the Pathfinder, ninety-six miles an hour, would bring it to the Italian city about 3 o'clock Eastern standard time, Wednesday morning.

Reports of favoring winds over most of the course were said by friends to have been the reason for a cutting down of the fuel supply.

Court Confirms Ownership of Vulcan Iron Co.

VANCOUVER, July 8.—The claim of Donald Campbell Patterson, Burnaby, against Vulcan Iron Works, Ltd., for a half interest in that company, alleging that by fraudulent conspiracy and by unauthorized resolution of shareholders the plaintiff had been deprived of his rights and interests, was dismissed in Supreme Court by Chief Justice Morrison.

After incorporating the company twenty-two years ago, Mr. Patterson, who originally held 251 of the 500 shares in 1906 in the concern, was later in a precarious financial position and abandoned his interest. Subsequently, under new management, the company prospered. Mainly on the ground that a resolution of shareholders, which purported to cancel his interest had not been passed or confirmed by court order, the plaintiff, after a lapse of twenty years, launched an action, explained the Chief Justice.

"I thought," said the disappointed friend, "you told me this election was going to be a walk-over."

"Well," sadly answered Poulin, "it was. I was the doorstep."

"The man you can't rattle"

Nine times out of ten, the man who keeps cool gets the best of a business deal. The strain of modern business life makes heavy demands on the nerves. The man who loses his nerve also loses his judgment.

Many successful business men use Wrigley's regularly. The act of chewing, they find, has a soothing effect. The healthful cleansing action of Wrigley's refreshes the mouth, apparently stimulates the flow of natural juices—steadies the nerves.

Apart from its soothing effect on the nerves, Wrigley's is pleasant after eating, after smoking, drinking or smoking. It cleans the teeth, firms the gums, sweetens the breath—makes the mouth clean and healthy.

Use Wrigley's—it pays big dividends on a small investment.

TOBACCO IS ACQUIRED BY FIRM IN B.C.

Atkinson, that a blend of tobacco can be produced here that is equal to that belonging so high as $2 a pound.

The blends produced have been turned over to independent experts, and pronounced the very best. In addition the ordinary smokers have tried out the blends for cigarette smoking, and for pipe and pronounced it of the best quality.

While this has been the result with the tobacco, which the government found itself in possession of from last year's crop, the experimental barn was so successful that the firm which took the tobacco now on hand has been ready to assume the responsibility for the handling of its crop, now growing, which will mean that it will be cured and prepared up to the selling stage.

CHANGE OF SYSTEM

It is pointed out that the curing of the tobacco grown in the Sumas district is different, like of procedure has to be followed from that used in the Okanagan grown crop.

That produced in the Okanagan has to be watched carefully during the processing in order to prevent its drying too quickly. The Sumas produced crop does not require the same attention in this line.

The solving of the tobacco situation clears up a problem which the Minister of Agriculture early after taking office was faced with. The government action decided upon has resulted most satisfactorily.

FIRES BEGIN DEVASTATION UPON ISLAND

little distance away. With eight men engaged on it, it is hoped to get it under control without great loss.

BUSH FIRE OCCURS

The fire which destroyed the Sylvester house was seen from the lookout station on Salt Spring Island and a crew was immediately got together to render help. This crew is now fighting the bush fire nearby.

FIRE IN SLASH

Alarming reports were received from Cowichan Lake vicinity during the afternoon of yesterday. The situation has been serious, as far as could be learned through the medium of telephone connection with the Lake. the fire starting in the afternoon.

It is expected that with one hundred and fifty men who are now employed in fighting the outbreak, that unless conditions materially change, control will be gained by today sometime.

The fire originated in the slash in a part of the logged-over land of the Victoria Lumber Company, about seven miles from Cowichan Lake on Robertson River. Fanned by a variable wind, it spread with little chance to control it until the green timber was reached.

The reports last night were that some damage had been done to the standing timber, but this was very slight and the fire-fighting gangs were coping with it. In the green timber in a manner that promised success would attend their efforts.

The location where the fire originated is up the Robertson River, known as Camp Two of the Victoria Lumber Company's operations.

AT LANGFORD LAKE

A grass and brush fire in the dense undergrowth at the north end of Langford Lake, which started about 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, threatened several housed and farm buildings. Fanned by a slight southeast wind, the fire spread rapidly, and only the fine work of volunteers, under the direction of Fire Chief of Sooke Harbour and Assistant Ranger H. J. Dunn, prevented serious damage. Those in touch with the situation ascribe the outbreak to cigarettes. Thirty men, as reported to the forest department, threw youths on bicycles who passed, smoking cigarettes just previous to the outbreak, for there were three separate fires started in rapid succession. Two of them were put out in the incipient stage. The third spread over a ten-acre area before the fighters, by splendid efforts, brought it under control.

The rangers and men continued most of their afternoon in saving a Chinaman's greenhouses, houses and barns, which were directly in the path of the flames. Backfires were built, and after a couple of hours' work, the blaze was checked. The fire was smouldering late last night, but if the wind remains down, no further outbreak is expected.

Sunday's blaze threw a huge pall of smoke over the city and attracted a large crowd of spectators.

OUTBREAK AT JORDAN RIVER

JORDAN RIVER, July 8.—Some excitement was caused through a fire starting by the old C.P.R. Lumber Company's wharf, but with the help of employees of the B.C. Electric Railway, Canadian Navy and C.P.R. Lumber Company, and the use of the C.P.R. Lumber Company's water pump, it was extinguished within a couple of hours. No damage was done, on account of a strong wind blowing in the opposite direction of the village.

From Thursday comes the report that Mr. Antrell—Jones suffered the loss of his home near there on Sunday afternoon. It is reported that the house was a complete loss.

press wish, most well-known persons, except those holding official positions, attended their usual places of worship. The Government of Great Britain was represented by Premier Ramsay MacDonald, Lord Thomson, Lord Passfield and Captain Wedgwood Benn, who awaited the arrival of the King and Queen at the west door.

The band played an elaborate organ-like music while the congregation assembled. When the music ceased for a space, the bells commenced pealing.

KING AND QUEEN ENTER

Finally inside the Abbey was heard the cheering as the King and Queen appeared. They were received at the west door by the Archbishop of Canterbury and the Dean of Westminster, Very Rev. W. F. Norris. A procession was immediately formed, led by the Abbey canons, followed like the Archbishop and Dean in rich robes, and preceded by the great gold cross of the Abbey. The procession included Lord Salisbury, High Steward of Westminster, and Lord Muir-Mackenzie, High Bailiff.

The Royal way in morning dress with a white flower in his lapel. The Queen wore a toque hat with a dress of the palest shade of lavender. Immediately following Their Majesties walked the Prince of Wales, the Duke and Duchess of York, Prince George, Princess Mary and Lord Lascelles, Princess Victoria and other members of the royal family.

The imposing procession moved slowly toward the presbytery while the choir sang words written by the late Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, "The King, the Queen on his left, the Prince of Wales on his right and the other members of the royal family around them, took their seats on the south side of the presbytery.

GIVING THANKS

The hymn, "All People That on Earth do Dwell," was sung to the familiar and robust music. There was a pause, and then a thunderous roll of the drums. The Dean of the Abbey then cried "God Save the King. God save this realm. God give us thankful hearts."

A stirring peal of trumpets followed, after which the organ and sounds led the congregation in the first verse of the National Anthem. A series of sentences of thankfulness, mainly from the Psalms, followed by the Dean. The Archbishop then led the people now on their knees, in the Lord's Prayer and several of the collects.

"We thank Thee that Thou hast given our King the joy and comfort of knowing that he possesses the hearts of his people, and we pray that the remembrance of him in thought and prayer made by folk of many races and in many places may give the promise of a time when all the peoples of the world shall share their joys and sorrows as members of one family in Christ Who art the Father of all."

These and other sentences were said, and then the congregation joined in the general thanksgiving, the words of which were doubtless familiar to most of the people.

The royal family then departed, it was said now feeling more at ease with the Prince and other members of the royal family passed for a while for a gracious exchange with such of their acquaintances as were there.

The Queen was all smiles, so, too, was His Majesty, but there was no doubt that he still bore traces of what he had been called upon to endure.

KING SENDS MESSAGE

King George, through his secretary, Lord Stamfordham, last night sent the following message to the Archbishop of Canterbury:

"The King returned from Westminster with feelings of thankfulness and satisfaction that his earnest desire to join with his people in an act of thanksgiving had been accomplished.

"To the Archbishop of Canterbury, to the Dean and Chapter of Westminster and to all who were responsible for organizing and carrying out the special service His Majesty desires to express his heartfelt gratitude.

"The whole ceremony displayed reverence, dignity and a beauty of programme which with the setting of the glorious Abbey seemed to complete that sacrifice of thanksgiving offered by the King and his people for all the benefits received at the hand of God."

INTO INNERMOST HINTERLAND OF NORTHERN B. C.

Rich Valleys and Grassy Foothills Are Back and Beyond the Peace, Surveyors Discover

ANIMAL LIFE IS REMARKABLE

A recent exploratory survey conducted by an official of the Topographical Survey Department of the Interior in Northeastern British Columbia, of the Halfway River region and the Prophet River country to the north of it, reveals a land where rich valleys roll up into grassy hills, and the hills to the eternal snowcapped mountains.

This is the tract lying north of the Peace River and northwest of the settlement of Hudson's Hope. Hara rivers of deep transparent blue drop away from over 4,000 feet above sea level to 1,500 feet through valleys of tangled wild, and sweet clover sown with wild fruit. The grass on the rolling hills and in the parklike reaches above the valleys is such that a few horses dropped from the Moodie Klondike expedition of 1898 flourished on it until the 1929.

"God, His Rain Pasture," is the Indians' name for a favorite shambling ground of the Rocky Mountain sheep north of the Peace. Kelly Creek Over the foothills roam herds of moose, caribou and deer, with grizzlies and others of the bear species. A beautiful valley lying between Klingnut Mountain and the Minaker River, with an area of about 38,000 acres, was called Summerland by the Indian Indians, because of its rich vegetate and abundant wild fruit. Here as well as elsewhere in the region, rainbow, brook and Dolly Varden trout teem in the streams, and the music of falling waters gives voice to the wilderness. Characteristics of British Columbia are these narrow fertile valleys rimmed by the hills, and there are many such in the Prophet and Halfway River expanse.

To the north outside the map in Thad River Valley is a group of warm sulphur springs. Trappers tell of many others on rivers flowing directly into the Liard.

Future sources of water power are seen in wild Peace River Canyon, on Sikanni Chief River, where the fall is 200 feet in forty miles, and in the Christina Falls of the Graham, dropping a sheer 225 feet into a deep gorge.

Entrance to this land is by trail from Port St. John or Hudson Hope. A few ranchers have already found their way in.

The reconnaissance map of the Prophet River and Halfway River sheets has been prepared upon application to the Surveyor-General, Department of the Interior, Ottawa. Bulletin No. 61, a complete summary of the report of the surveyor who carried on the exploration is in course of preparation, and will also be available shortly for a nominal fee.

Mr. MacDonald to Meet Premier at Visit to Ottawa

TORONTO, July 8.—Separate conferences with President Hoover of the United States and Premier King of Canada are contemplated by Mr Ramsay MacDonald, Premier of Great Britain, according to Mr James Simpson, vice-president of the Canadian Trades and Labor Congress, who returned to Toronto tonight after attending the Labor Congress at Geneva. Mr. Simpson visited Mr. MacDonald while in Geneva.

"Mr. MacDonald anticipated a visit to the United States early in September to confer with President Hoover and to Canada to confer with our Prime Minister, Mr. W. L. Mackenzie King," Mr. Simpson said. "He is determined to make a real contribution to the peace movement in the process of disarmament if he gets a real opportunity."

Plane Carrying Treaty Makers Dives Into Lake

OTTAWA, July 8.—Four persons were aboard the ill-fated Ottawa-bound transport airplane piloted by Flying Officer R. Kingsley Bear, which crashed into Deep Lake near Chalybarg House, in Northern Ontario, according to the latest word received by wire at National Defence headquarters here.

Only one was drowned when the plane sank in about forty feet of water in Lake St. John. He was Alexander Morrison, an employee of the Hudson's Bay Company, located at Ormsbury House. The injured are: Flying Officer Kingsley Bear, Ottawa, now in the hospital at Sioux Lookout with multiple bruises, and R. (S Hooke), manager of the post at Ormsbury House, who is suffering with a severe cut over one eye. The mechanic, John Shaw, escaped injury.

The cause of the accident is obscure, according to the latest information. Flying Officer Bose in telegraphed to his wife he would be out of hospital in two days, when he would take charge of salvage operations, and try to raise the sunken plane from the bottom of the lake.

CITY BACKS STRIKERS

NEW ORLEANS, July 8.—Activities in the street car strike were transferred today from street fighting to feverish maneuvering around conference boards as efforts were made to settle a three between the company and the strikers.

With the full pressure of virtually every civic organization in the city behind them, the city commission council today dispatched a statement from the Carmen's Union to the New Orleans Public Service, Inc., with the demand that the union's proposal be accepted.

CREATION OF EMPIRE HAS NO PARALLEL

Mr. Herbert Garrison, Noted Publicist, Describes Great Powe, and Extent of British Empire

CANADIAN CLUB HEARS ORATION

Formation of Imperial Parliament, and Worthy Valhalla for Pioneers of Land Are Advocated

"Of all the results of British history, none is comparable to the creation of this enormous, prosperous, far-flung British Empire 'A Nation and a Company of Nations,' and it cannot be paralleled by anything in the history of any other state, kingdom or empire," declared Mr. W. Herbert Garrison, F.R.G.S., F.R.C.I., noted publicist and lecturer, of London, England, in addressing a luncheon meeting of the Men's Canadian Club yesterday in the Empress Hotel ballroom on the subject, "Canada of the British Empire."

Though seventy-one years of age, Mr. Garrison seemed filled with the fire of youthful enthusiasm, and prolonged applause greeted his brilliant oration. His leonine head thrown proudly back, the speaker spoke with fluency and force as he pictured "the greatest Empire that has been."

"The British Empire was not founded on the enlightened ideas of Rome or on imperialism, but it was founded on the Bible, on national righteousness, on the spirit of brotherhood, and on the loyalty and affection of the people to the Sovereign and the Throne," said Mr. Garrison. "It is the greatest, finest and best Empire the world has ever known."

This commonwealth of nations has not merely happened, he said, but it has been designed and built throughout the centuries through "by the Great Architect and the Great Conservator of the Universe."

EVER-EXPANDING EMPIRE

"What a far-out-reaching, ever-expanding Empire ours is," Mr. Garrison went on. "In Newfoundland we have for one thing, enough iron ore in sight to supply the needs for the whole world for a hundred years to come. In this West Indies we have a chain of tropical islands of wealth and beauty extending from Venezuela to Yucatan. In this great Dominion of Canada we have the keystone of a majestic Empire arch stretching 3,500 miles from the Atlantic to the Pacific with vast wheat fields, fruit orchards, mineral areas, huge forests, and a few miles away the great oil producing country. In Africa we have the land of great opportunities. In Australia we have the island continent, described as the greatest dominion next to that of England, the gift of a continent ordained by war. People are wrong when they say that the British Empire was acquired by fighting. India, where British rule is the greatest phenomenon of our time, in fact, of all time, is the marvel of all ages."

Mr. Garrison asserted that the British Empire is world-wide in extent, and is the first and only Christian Empire of all time. In size it is eight times the size of the Persian Empire under Darius, seven times that of the Roman Empire under Augustus, three times that of China, twice that of Russia, and three and one-half times that of Europe. It covers 13,000,000 square miles, and it has more than 100 key and gate positions of the world, which naval and military experts declare is equal for defence purposes to the possession of a standing army of 8,000,000 men.

TRANSPORTATION FACILITIES

"It has by far the largest mercantile marine of any Empire. One of all the ships that sail or steam over the ocean, seas and gulfs of the world, seventy per cent fly the British flag, leaving only thirty per cent to all the rest of the world put together. Its railway mileage would encircle the globe nearly five times. Its railways will soon cross three continents," he stated.

The speaker pointed out that the commerce of the Empire deals with every known product of the earth, and causes nearly 2,000,000,000 pounds worth of goods to pass in and out of the ports of the world every year.

"The British Empire is not held together by iron or steel bands, but solely by the affection of the people for the Royal House," he said.

The grave hours of King George's illness were recalled by Mr. Garrison, who spoke of the sad moments when rumor had declared His Majesty had passed. He doubted if history recorded such popularity of any sovereign as that held by King George the Good.

Mr. Garrison urged the formation of an Imperial Parliament to which representatives from all portions of the Empire, men with vision, experience, courage and faith in the future, would meet for the settlement of Empire affairs.

"KEEP MEMORY GREEN"

"I also want to see a worthy Valhalla for the founders and pioneers of the Empire. We have not made the respect and honor to our heroes and heroines in the past we should. Each community should have a memorial to its leading citizens, perpetuating their achievements, heroism and self-sacrifice. We should keep green the memory of the great men of our country," he exhorted.

The speaker described Canada as "God's Own Country, the premier Dominion of the British Empire." He asked his hearers to feel with him a "pride of Empire," and made a fervent plea for the promotion of the interests and integrity of the Empire and for a consideration of the whole of the Anglo-Saxon peoples that would foster the peace and best interests of the world.

Mr. Mark W. Graham, president of the Canadian Club, presided, and introduced the speaker-guest. In moving a vote of thanks to Mr. Garrison for his inspiring message, Mr. John Cochrane, a past president of the organization, said that it was a great privilege to be a Canadian, but such privileges carried with them great responsibility. It was the duty of citizens to carry on the noble task initiated by the great men of the past. Applause greeted his statement that the prosperity of the Empire gave cause to feel gratitude. He warmly commended the Canadian Pacific Railway, which he described as an outstanding organization in business on this continent.

LONDON SERVICE THRILLS FANS

Thanksgiving Service in Westminster Abbey Broadcast—Australia Is Also Heard Over Air

Between the hours of 2 and 2.30 o'clock on Sunday morning, radio fans had the thrill of being able to listen to the Thanksgiving service in the recovery of King George in Westminster Abbey, which was being broadcast through the National Broadcasting Company.

The clear voice of the English announcer announcing "We are broadcasting throughout the British Isles and to America the Thanksgiving service of His Majesty," was the opening of the service from London, which Victorians heard over station KCMO. This was followed by the music on the Westminster Abbey organ, then the service was carried out under the direction of the Archbishop of Canterbury. The choir singing was superb.

An added surprise was occasioned when New York, waiting for London to say good-night, picked up Sydney, Australia. The announcers in Sydney were evidently just through with their day's work at 3 a.m. Victoria time. One or two of them were making up jokes, while another was trying to get into touch with Montreal. He kept saying, "Hello, Montreal, this is Sydney speaking."

After Australia bid good-night, the New York announcer said how thrilled the Americans were with the full recovery of His Majesty.

The reception here through the Seattle station was quite satisfactory. Crystal set owners had the pleasure of listening to London and Australia within half an hour of each other.

POLITE

A newly-married couple stopped for lunch at a hotel where they were given a overzealous. For the tenth time he called up.

"And what can I do for you now, sir?"

"Some honeymoon salad, please."

"You have me there, sir," replied the manager. "May I ask what it contains of?"

"Just lettuce alone."

Another Idea Shown for Canadian Flag

A DISTINCTIVE Canadian flag, embodying the Union Jack, representative of ties with the Mother Country, and maple leaf and beaver, emblematic of Canada, is the idea of Mr. A. C. Hestlie, Toronto, shown in No. 3 of the layout. The recent discussion in the press concerning Canada's much-disputed need for a national flag prompted his idea. Reproductions of the new flag are shown in Nos. 1 and 2.

ORIENTALS PAY $144 IN FINES

Eighteen Chinese Plead Guilty in Police Court to Charges of Being Inmates of Gaming House

Pleading guilty through counsel, Mr. William C. Moresby, K.C., eighteen Chinese were each fined $8 by Magistrate George Jay in the city police court yesterday for being inmates of a common gaming house located in a set of rooms known as the Chung Lee or Dai Pai Club, on the east side of Pan Tin Alley.

Sergeant Thomas Heatley, who with three constables, raided the Pan Tan Alley premises at 10:15 o'clock on Sunday night, related the circumstances of the case to the court. The officers entered the club with a warrant and found a quantity of marked and unmarked lottery tickets, fan tan gambling paraphernalia and 13 cents in money on a table.

Convicted on a charge of vagrancy, Errigo Reposito was sentenced to one month's imprisonment with hard labor. The accused pleaded not guilty to the charge. Prosecution testimony indicated that Reposito annoyed a party of Mainland school teachers upon their arrival here on Sunday to attend the annual Summer School. The magistrate said he had no doubt that the accused was a pest. "Following and interfering with women is a practice that must be discouraged. Fortunately it is an offence that very seldom happens here," he declared. Reposito was arrested by Detectives Phipps and Hall.

Alphonse Bob, an Indian, pleaded guilty to being drunk, and was fined $10 or ten days in jail. Pleading guilty to a second offence of being intoxicated in a public place, Oscar Anderson was fined $50 with the option of ten days in jail.

St. Jones, Roy Morrison, Thomas Rice and Daniel H. Purbes were each fined for failing to bring their automobiles to a full stop upon entering arterial highways.

Noted Motion Picture Director Pays Visit Here

With the object of taking his first holiday after three years strenuous work and, at the same time, looking over the possibilities of this city as future developments, Mr. Fred Niblo, well-known Hollywood motion picture director arrived, together with Mrs. Niblo, at the Empress Hotel on Sunday. Mr. Niblo, who directs for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer productions, used at one time to be on the legitimate stage, and was seen in Victoria twenty years ago with "The Fortune Hunter."

At one time Mr. Niblo, in common with many other producers, was opposed to the "Talkie," but has now become one of its most enthusiastic supporters. Much had been accomplished in perfecting the talking film in the production studio, he said, but there was still much to do in the training of the actual projectors and operators in the various theatres.

Mr. Niblo has just completed the direction of Douglas Fairbanks's "Redmaiden," which will shortly be released.

One automobiles asked another one:

"How much did you pay for that car, George?"

It was a very old and dilapidated car, and George answered gruffly:

"I didn't pay nothin' for it. It was a present to me."

"George," said the first automobile, "by golly, you've been robbed."

CADETS WILL BE INSPECTED AT RODD HILL

Brigadier-General J. Sutherland Brown Will Carry Out Inspection Tomorrow at 11 o'Clock

PUBLIC INVITED TO SEE PARADE

Brigadier-General J. Sutherland Brown, C.M.G., D.S.O., D.O.C., M.D. No. 11, will carry out the inspection of the 600 cadets now in camp at Rodd Hill tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock, according to information received yesterday from Capt. E. M. MacBrayne, M.C., F.P.C.L.I., Camp Commandant. Premier S. F. Tolmie, W. C. Shelly, Minister of Finance, and Dr. R. J. Willis, superintendent of education, will also attend the inspection. A cordial invitation to the public to witness the inspection has been issued by Captain MacBrayne.

Six hundred cadets, ranging in years from twelve to seventeen, are at present under canvas at Rodd Hill in one of the largest cadet camps ever held on Vancouver Island. Of the total number there are 185 from the 16th Regiment, Vancouver, while the remainder are from the 38th Regiment, Victoria.

The scene at Rodd Hill, the temporary home of the youths, presents a miniature village under canvas, while the stillness of the district is broken by the voices of healthy boys enjoying many various sports.

Up at 6 o'clock in the morning to the call of "Reveille," to bed at 10 o'clock with the sounding of the "Last Post," are the good hours kept by the boys during the camp. During the day courses in signalling, first aid, physical training, swimming and musetry are carried out.

The camp will conclude on Thursday with the return to the Mainland on the Canadian Pacific of the cadets from Vancouver.

Drum-head service was conducted at the camp yesterday by Capt. P. C. Chapman, military chaplain at Work Point Barracks. The 600 cadets formed up in a hollow square presented a striking spectacle for the many citizens who witnessed the service.

SEA POWER AND SAFETY

In connection with the course of the present Labor Government in Britain there are two points upon which Mr. Winston Churchill says the Conservatives will require special assurance. The first of these is the Safeguarding and McKenna duties. Mr Churchill and the Conservatives are perturbed because of the proposal by the Labor Government for the repeal of these. This is not the time, says the former Chancellor of the Exchequer, "to bring political spite and partisanship into British industry. We cannot afford to disturb, damage and discourage important industries by making their affairs mere pawns in the party game." He believes that the removal of the duties would be a "needless, wanton and entirely superfluous act."

The second point is the attitude of the Labor Government towards the British Navy. Mr. Churchill asks what will be done respecting the safety and power of the country. Like all the Conservatives he wants to see the Navy maintained at the minimum strength necessary to enable the country to guarantee the security of food supplies and trade, and "to preserve the necessary contact with the world-spread Dominions and possessions of the British Crown." There is cause for disquiet over the Labor attitude towards the Navy and it may be upon this rock of strength to Empire that the Government of Mr. Ramsay MacDonald will split and go to pieces. It will be unfortunate if, in any way, it is brought into the realm of party politics, but, in opposition, the Laborites have been stringent in their criticism of some aspects of necessary naval strength. As regards the other point about which Mr. Churchill is concerned, namely, the Safeguarding duties, it is hardly conceivable that, if the Labor Party is anxious to solve the unemployment problem, it will perform any act which will tend to add to the army of out-of-works.

WOMEN IN THE NEWS

Mr. I. A. R. Wylie, in Good Housekeeping, has been discussing why women are "news;" in other words, why so much space is devoted to them and their activities in the newspapers. He alludes to headlines on special articles upon which the changes are rung down in such varying shades—"Do Women Make Good Mothers?" "Do Women Love?", "Are Women Faithful?", etc etc. These topics are perennial and generally afford interesting reading because there are so many viewpoints. The writer of the article in Good Housekeeping admits that women are not exactly new but that they are always "news." This is undoubtedly because the mind of man has never fathomed that of women. The male and the female mind appear, in some respects, to be differently constituted and there is a perpetual difficulty in one understanding the other. Of the two, woman's mind is undoubtedly the more complex.

Mr. Wylie inclines to the view, a superficial one, that men, who occupy the chief editorial and journalistic posts, have specially built up women in the news in order to deflect public attention from their own sex. He records that of one hundred males chosen at random only one responded definitely to the feminine stimuli. Fifteen, he says, proved incapable of realizing the importance of the investigation and maintained that women were merely human. Twenty wanted to talk exclusively about themselves. The balance, or sixty-four, were anxious to discuss women, "but on terms which I, having analyzed their private and professional careers, could not regard as symptomatic." Mr. Wylie's one hundred men can hardly be regarded as typical, whatever deductions he draws. It is a wholly wrong assumption, for instance, that the majority of those interested in women's news are women. If that were the case it is doubtful if newspapers would devote so much space to women even though they are the predominant sex in the matter of number!

Women and many of their doings constitute news, firstly, because they are as great newspaper readers nowadays as men; secondly, because the emancipation of the sex gives them an exalted place in the news, and thirdly, because there is an evasive and unfathomable quality, or qualities, in women which will always afford a theme for speculation. Women's reactions are different to those of the male sex. The course which they often dictate for themselves is not governed by what men consider it should be by the logic of events. They do the unexpected, and the unexpected always constitutes news. "Woman's at best a contradiction still," as Pope wrote, and, "Often change doth please a woman's mind"—to quote Sir Thomas Wyatt. In fact Montaigne perhaps sized it all up in saying that "Feminine policy has a mysterious method; it is better to leave it to them." Most of the great writers and poets, when they have touched upon the psychology of woman, have admitted they are baffled, and where they have failed newspaper men are hardly likely to succeed. They go on discussing the subject, however, because it constitutes, and always will constitute, news. Women's activities and feminine reactions will continue to occupy an increasing space in the daily press.

ZANZIBAR'S SULTAN

The Sultan of Zanzibar, Seyyid Khalifa ben Harub, was last month in England as the honored guest of the British Government. Zanzibar has been a protectorate of the British Empire since 1890. It consists of two islands: Zanzibar, about 640 square miles, and Pemba, rather more than half as big, with some smaller islands. The total population is about 200,000, and is very mixed. The ruling type is Arab, some 10,000 or so, but there are many Indians, more in probability than the Arabs, for the trade with India, through Bombay, is extensive. The majority are Africans. The capital, Zanzibar, is the chief storehouse and trading port of that region of East Africa, for it has a good harbor, with centuries of trade to give it fame. Zanzibar is not healthy for Europeans. It is not far from the Equator, very hot and moist, but it is a fertile island, in competition with the East Indies for such spices as cinnamon, chillies, nutmegs and cloves. It is the most noted place in the world for the growth of cloves. Also it grows coconuts and rubber, and collects East African products, such as ivory, hides and skins. It imports rice, and is a depot for such European goods as the East African requires, so that it has a trade value of some $20,000,000 a year. Indeed, it is a place to which and from which trade flows. There was a time when it exported a considerable amount of gold.

In those distant days, there was a district known as the Land of Zeng, from which came the name Zanzibar. Very little is known about the Land of Zeng. The Arabs, by the time the East African Coast had been reached by the Portuguese, who were the first European voyagers of this part, had secured a footing on many parts of the coast, and had begun the slave raids which they carried on until quite a recent date. Gradually the Portuguese held sway from Zanzibar for a thousand miles north and south. As Portugal declined in the seventeenth century the Arabs from Muscat resumed their hold of the coast, and founded a number of small States, with Arabs as their chiefs. Finally, a Muscat Arab family became Sultans in Zanzibar. This was the state of things within living memory, when the larger European nations, introducing civilization, and abolishing the slave trade, began to partition Africa among themselves. Britain accepted a protectorate over Zanzibar, the Sultan being advised by a British Resident. The present Sultan, who visited England also in 1911, is a Knight of the British Empire. He was a faithful supporter of the Empire during the war, and has maintained a wise rule. He speaks English, is interested in education, and rules a mixed population with discretion. As a man of Arab race, he is, of course, a Mohammedan.

The final figures in the late British election, including the delayed Rugby poll, show that 22,639,243 persons voted out of a total electorate of 28,502,265. In other words, a percentage of 79.4 went to the polls. The Unionist candidates received 8,664,243 votes; Labor candidates, 8,362,594; Liberals, 5,300,947, and Independents, 311,333. The final standing of the parties is: Labor, 289; Unionists, 260; Liberals, 58, and Independents 8.

PANACEA

Now, to the friendly stars, if it be night,
When sore discouraged, down and out, I turn,
Or, be it day, to elves and fairies bright,
Who dwell beneath the breeze-blown, bending fern,
That quivers in the stream-cooled Summer air,
On leaf-lined paths, 'midst beds of flowers fair!

First, to the stars, whose constant rays convert
To peaceful happiness, within mine heart,
The cruel, rank discourtesies, that hurt,
When friends from friendship's kindly ways depart;
Then, upward gazing, I can plainly see
The Pleiades above, who comfort me!

And, often, to a lovely glen I wing,
Where gentle glade unto a lake extends,
I sit, where Fairy golden-bell chimes ring
Sweet compensation for weird ways of friends.
And later on, I rise, refreshed, to view,
With clearer eyes, my heart-hopes rising, too!

So when life's daily burdens seem too hard;
When hope, deferred, thine heart's ambition kills,
Go to the stars for counsel; fears discard,
Or tell them to the golden daffodils!
Star rays, or perfume, soon, will drive from thee
Thy worst-yet troubles! And, these cures are free!

Victoria, B.C., June 20, 1929. —Kilbee Gordon.

THE FAIRIES

The fairies have never a penny to spend,
They haven't a thing put by
But theirs is the dower of bird and of flower
And theirs are the earth and the sky
And though you should live in a palace of gold
Or sleep in a dried-up ditch,
You could never be poor as the fairies are,
And never as rich

Since ever and ever the world began
They have danced like a ribbon of flame,
They have sung their song through the centuries long
And yet it is never the same.
And though you be foolish or though you be wise,
With hair of silver or gold,
You could never be young as the fairies are
And never as old

—Rose Fyleman, in Fairies and Chimneys.

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

As an astute and successful politician said once upon a time, "you can't fool all the people all the time." As we may be permitted to say without prejudice, neither can you please all the people all the time. There are people in this province who are not yet pleased with and probably never will be reconciled to the result of the late provincial elections. Mr. T. Duff Pattullo is expressing almost daily his dissatisfaction with the manner in which the affairs of the province are being administered by the present Government. He "views with alarm" every administrative action of the Government. He professes to believe that the Government is leading the province to some kind of pit of perdition.

Mr. A. M. Manson is even more apprehensive and depressed about the future of the province than his former colleague and present political chief. Mr Pattullo does not blame any particular person or institution for the disaster that overwhelmed the late Government nor for the disaster that menaces the province. Like the Arab philosopher, he comforts himself with the reflection, "It is fate!"

But Mr Manson is more querulous than Mr. Pattullo. He blames the press for the unexpected, and, as he thinks, the undeserved, calamity that happened to the Government. And he seems to think that if the Government had been more fearless in its dealings with the press, that if it had stood up to and told the press what it thought of it, instead of humbling itself before it and apologizing to it, the result of the election might have been different. Consequently in the opinion of Mr. Manson the press is a menace in the security of the most deserving and desirable political institutions and must be taken in hand and chastised. The political habit of bending to the press instead of taking it in hand and breaking it was therefore responsible for the decline and fall of the late lamented MacLean Government.

Our dolorous friend the late Attorney-General surely should be more specific in his references to the unbending press. The press which supported his party in the late election was sufficiently stern and unbending in its criticisms of the late opposition and strikingly supple and pliable in its advocacy of the "principles of Liberalism." It was public opinion as expressed by the press which was opposed to the Government that accomplished the downfall of the Government. The public had been fooled for a long time, but it could not be fooled all the time. There is an inevitable end to every period of political foolery.

The gloom of Mr Manson reminds us of the possibly deeper gloom of the Gloomy Dean. His Reverence of St. Paul's, as almost everybody knows, is as pronounced in his political views as he is unconventional in his religious opinions. And when he has something to say upon any subject—and he has something to say on almost every subject, either in the pulpit or through the press—the something he has to say is worth listening to or reading about. Of course the Dean had to tell the people what he thought of the late general election, its probable results and the manner in which it was conducted.

Well, the Gloomy Dean has told Britain and the world through a church paper what he thinks of the results of the late general election. He begins his article with the following striking sentence, "the grandmother of Parliaments seems to be in her dotage." Then he proceeds to elaborate his thesis:

"A Conservative majority under universal suffrage is an anomalous thing, not likely to be repeated.

"Our present electorate is a manifest farce; no one can suppose that it represents wisdom or intelligence. The habit of no longer looking to Parliament for useful remedies and constructive measures has been confirmed by the inertia and futility of Mr Baldwin's government. They had an unexampled majority, and an opportunity, such as can never recur, of showing what Conservatism really stands for. It seems to stand for nothing at all.

"The great problem before the country is, of course, unemployment, caused by a temporary congestion of population. I say temporary because the birth-rate (reckoned on the basis of a stationary population) is now slightly less than the death-rate.

"No political party has done anything whatever to deal with this danger. The Conservative remedy has been to bribe people not to emigrate, to allow Irish and others to swarm into the country, and to build houses by the hundred thousand at public expense. All who are actively engaged in promoting emigration agree that the people refuse to go because they prefer to live on the dole.

"The miners who went to Canada assisted by the State, have nearly all come back; they discovered that farmers have to rise early and work for long hours. The masses are fully convinced that they have a right to be maintained at home at the public expense, so long as they cannot find work. No government has ever done so much for the active demoralization of the people, and it is needless to say that the other parties would not be behindhand in the same work.

"But behind the special problem of over-population there is another tendency, even more far-reaching and destructive. It is probable that a majority of the population are now in receipt of State-relief, in free education, doles, pensions, and what not. We are creating a vast parasitic class, wholly or partially supported by the industry of the remainder.

"This is not socialism, though socialistic arguments may be used to justify it; it is more like the doles to the populace of Rome which exhausted the imperial exchequer. It is a millstone round the neck of British trade and enterprise, under which we seem likely to sink. And no political party would dare to touch it with a little finger, except to make it worse. The opinion is growing that politics is an extremely expensive game."

MEDICAL INSPECTION

Present Medical Inspectorship and Medical Health Officer's Post Held Since 1925

The statement appearing in The Colonist of July 3 to the effect that Dr. Richardson Felton, who has been appointed medical health officer of Victoria, includes in his present practice the duties of medical health officer of Sooke and Metchosin and medical inspector of thirteen or fourteen schools on the southern end of Vancouver Island is incorrect. Dr. Felton at one time held these offices, but since 1925 Dr. Irene Bastow Hudson has been medical inspector of the thirteen schools in the Sooke, Metchosin district, and medical health officer of the district stretching northwest from Albert Head and Goldstream. The schools served by her are Langford, Colwood, Sooke, Otter Point, Shirley, Jordan River, Albert Head, Metchosin, Rocky Point, Happy Valley, East Sooke, North Sooke and Goldstream. Her appointment is held under the Provincial Medical Health Officer.

In a letter from Dr. Irene Bastow Hudson pointing out the foregoing and printed in The Colonist on July 7, through a typographical error, she was made to say that she held the medical inspectorship and the appointment of medical health officer from 1929, whereas the date should have been 1925.

HISTORICAL ARTICLES

Sir,—I wish to thank you for the recent interesting historical articles in The Colonist. There was one on June 30 and two on July 7. It is very important that the present day residents in the city of Victoria should be informed about the growth of the various municipal and provincial activities from the earliest times.

There is, however, one criticism I desire to make, that is that the articles were not signed. It is an accepted fact that all serious historical writing is signed with the author's name, and surely it is your desire that the above three articles should be accepted by your readers as serious historical work. Again you insist that all "Letters to the Editor" must be signed with the name of the author, and here you admit of no exceptions. Surely the author of the above three articles is not ashamed of putting his name to them, nor does he think their value would be depreciated by your readers knowing who had written them.

I may say that several well-known people in the city agree with me on this point.

A DANGEROUS WEED PEST

Sir,—The garden salsify or oyster plant is another case of a garden plant going wild and spreading so rapidly that it is becoming a menace in the district. The strong stems topped with brown seedheads, about the size and shape of a tennis ball, are now seen in many places outside the garden from which the seed originally escaped. It has almost monopolized some of the boulevards and vacant lots between Central Park and Hillside Avenue and its winged seeds are being carried by the wind for long distances. So far as I can find out, the wild plant is utterly useless. Cattle won't touch it. I was told goats refused hay that had some of the plants mixed with it. Like a true pest, it quickly takes entire possession of the ground on which it grows. It could be controlled if prompt measures were taken now the area it covers is limited. It should be an illegal act to allow the plants to go to seed.

THE CHURCH OF SCOTLAND

Sir,—In Sunday's Colonist, June 16, page fourteen, columns two and five, it says in reference to the departure of Rev. Dr. W. G. Wilson in part: "He is a delegate to the General Assembly of the new United Church of Scotland," which statement is most misleading, there being no United Church of Scotland. There are two General Assemblies held in Edinburgh yearly in May. The General Assembly of the Church of Scotland which has assembled for hundreds of years, is Presbyterian in doctrine, and a representative of the Crown is present as commissioner. The other, the General Assembly of the United Free Church of Scotland, which has assembled since 1900, is also Presbyterian in doctrine, but without a commissioner. Both assemblies adjourned in May to meet in October, 1929.

Meanwhile, many ministers and congregations of the United Free Church of Scotland have agreed to go back to its mother church (the Church of Scotland) in October. Some ministers and congregations of the United Free Church of Scotland have not agreed to reunite with its mother church, therefore, in future, there will still be two churches, as the United refuses to unite. It will interest The Colonist readers to know which General Assembly Rev. Dr. Wilson is appointed to attend in October.

BILLBOARDS

Sir,—Saanich should be congratulated on trying to suppress the hideous monstrosities of bill hoardings that are surely getting beyond control. Our City Council is practically dead so far as Victoria is concerned, for at every corner these pests are being erected. Soon we may change our name from, "Victoria, the Beautiful," to some name that signifies the town with hoardings, or provide ladders at each one so that visitors can climb up and see the beauties on the other side. If every one in Victoria were to buy from those who don't advertise on these eyesores six months would see them cleared away.

CONSERVATION OF FISHERIES

Sir,—I note in a recent issue of The Colonist a letter by Mr. O. Scarf, on the fisheries problem. Why Mr. Scarf calls the disappearance of our fish a problem I cannot understand. The matter is as simple as ABC. We are destroying, through the fish meal plants, the natural food of our fish and driving them to eating their own kind, when the hair seal, dogfish, etc. cannot get herring, oolichan or pilchards, they further the work of destruction, and what fish escape are caught at their spawning grounds and put in a can. The politicians are well aware of this, so they (as politicians always do) unload the burden on to the public. The latest joke is that the fish meal and canneries can work practically under no restriction, while the public must not use two lines in a boat, and is limited to five grilse for a catch.

I embodied this into a letter which was published by The Colonist, thinking the Chamber of Commerce would be interested. I sent a copy to the president of that institution. I received the following highly intelligent reply. I quote verbatim.

"As no doubt you are aware this organization (the Victoria Chamber of Commerce) is doing everything possible to preserve the existing facilities for fishing by sportsmen. The commercial fishing is an entirely different subject and the pilchard fisheries and canneries on the west coast of Vancouver Island are not in any way connected with fishing for sport. The subjects are vastly different and there is no connection between them, and Mr. Fowler has instructed me to advise you that he desires to continue to take an interest in all phases of the question and in both of these matters, which are so entirely different.

"Yours truly,

"GEORGE WARREN."

The above letter is a sample of what any sportsman gets when he tries to preach logic. Any ten-year-old boy can tell you that you cannot destroy the food of our game fish and put sporting fish in a can and have the same fish in our waters for sport only. One of the greatest permanent assets we have in British Columbia is our resident and tourist fishermen and if the commercial fishing is not stopped we will (as we are doing now) lose the revenue from the sportsmen. As regards the men employed in commercial fishing plants, they are digging their own graves now for if the present destruction of fish keeps up, our canneries, like the ones in the U.S.A. will be rusted and falling down, and then the public will be expected to spend millions of dollars in fish cultivation.

Mr. Scarf suggests mass production of fish, but why produce fish to be put in a can? Better conserve what we have by curtailing the canneries.

Getting rid of the dogfish is an excellent idea, make him into fertilizer instead of using edible fish. The other pests would not be so much in evidence in our inlets if they were not driven in by the destruction of their natural food outside.

Mr. Scarf is to be congratulated upon his letter, but he must not lose sight of the fact that all the natural enemies of the fish are a mere nothing compared to commercial fishing which has upset the whole balance of nature. Only a few years ago there was fish enough for all, seals and kingfishers included, but thanks to the greed of man and the indifferent stupidity of our fishing board, who allow the fish to be killed when they are attempting to spawn, our fish will soon be a thing of the past.

The fish and game associations, that should have the courage to stop this wholesale slaughter, never go to the root of the evil, but dish up every season a new set of by-laws to bother the public. What piffle to waste printer's ink about "open seasons" and "close seasons," for line fishermen, when commercial fishermen are allowed to slaughter the fish by the million at the very season when they should be protected.

Sir,—In your Sunday, June 30, issue I see where you give Father Rondeau credit for having the first grist mill in Cowichan.

Mr. Creight had the first mill and it was on the creek by Mr. W. P. Jaynes' place. Later Mr. Creight sold the stones to Father Rondeau, who moved them to his place.

Jots From History

GOOD King Wenceslas, of Germany, who ruled during the early part of the fifteenth century, was not a good king at all, according to history. Upon succeeding to the throne, he annulled the debts owing to the Jews of his country, upon payment of fifteen per cent of the total amount to himself. A mob at Prague, having slaughtered three thousand Jews, he promptly confiscated their property. In 1400 he was disposed by the German princes, and spent the last nineteen years of his life indulging in excesses which caused his death.

HE RECOGNISED IT

A connoisseur of paintings saw in a second-hand dealer's shop the portrait of an admiral in full uniform. He offered the dealer £50 for it, but the latter declined to sell under £75. As neither would give way, the picture remained in the shop.

A short time afterwards the connoisseur saw the picture hanging in the dining room of a house he happened to be visiting.

"Hallo! What have you got here—" he said to his host.

The latter replied that the portrait had been bequeathed to him and added—"It is the portrait of one of Nelson's admirals, an ancestor of ours."

"Was he, indeed?" commented the connoisseur. "A month ago he was within £25 of becoming one of mine."

TOULON, Ills., July 8—Laura Weaver, a twenty-one-year-old woman of great size and strength, was held today for the torch murder of her common law husband, Wilmer Kitselman, fifty-two, six feet tall and weighing 310 pounds. The young woman told of strangling Kitselman, wrapping his body in a quilt, rolling it down stairs, loading it into an automobile and of driving into the country where she dumped it by the roadside poured naphtha over it and then touched a match to it. After questioning the Weaver woman detained for county officers the story of her affair with Kitselman and its ending. Her confession told of her growing disgust with Kitselman's habit of drinking to excess

The Rhyming Optimist

By Aline Michaelis

SUMMER NIGHT

The stars are fairer now than those that shone
In deeps of cold December skies. remote,
Then, world by world wheeled on through space alone
Now golden petals on blue waters float.

The stars lean nearer now than those we saw
When all the world was growing pale and old.
They march lowelise under changeless law
Yet how they are no longer calm and cold!

I wonder can it be the stars have heard
Some faint, far echo of our perfect bliss?
And through the universe has some breath stirred
That makes the stars more bright, because we kiss?

"My doctor has charged me an outrageously high fee. And all he did was ask me a few questions and tap me on the chest.

"Didn't he take your pulse?"

"No, he left me that"

DEMOCRACY IS IRRESISTIBLE

N.A.N.A. WRITER EXAMINES CHANGING CONDITIONS IN OLD COUNTRY

Dickens and Lincoln, a Striking Protest Against the Social Caste System

This story was obtained through the co-operation of the Allison Bureau in Kansas City. The Star. It is one of a series of stories of observations abroad by a member of The Star staff, by Edwin O. Fridham.

LONDON, July 8.—(North American Newspaper Alliance)—Out of this social and political system, founded on caste, time has formed many strange paradoxes.

Mussolini and Russian democracy in America by asking what would happen to it when its governments should be chosen by an electorate that had not had breakfast. That never has happened and as we don't know, but strongly enough English democracy has supplied the answer.

A government has just been elected in this country by an electorate that—employing Macaulay's own exaggerative figure—wasn't wholly certain of its dinner, and nothing has happened.

But I have been struck more forcibly by another illustration of the fact that the most carefully calculated product of men—as is the formation of this English social system—is so much admired by Machiavelli, for example—are helpless against the processes by which mankind advances.

In Westminster Abbey lies Charles Dickens. Just outside, in the most commanding position in those historic precincts, stands a statute of Abraham Lincoln. Here were two men for whom the ancient policy of aristocratic England could no place. One began life in a blacking warehouse in London, the other in the backwoods of Kentucky. Both were born to poverty and obscurity and into social systems that determined settled.

TWO NOTABLE MEMORIALS

I know of no more striking figure of the power that lies in a people to overcome and change the conditions imposed by the organizers of a human society than is presented by these two memorials in that last presative juxtaposition. This English society was organized frankly for the benefit of its ruling caste, which consisted of a few powerful landed families. Great as it made the forces, whose very existence was then unrecognized, of which the grave of Charles Dickens in the Abbey and the statute of Abraham Lincoln outside are among the foremost and most universally accepted symbols.

Democracy is being closely scrutinized these days, and its weaknesses rather loudly proclaimed. Now and then it might be well to look for its strength. If not observable elsewhere, look in Westminster.

TEMPLE CHURCH MEMORIES

How fragile and dissolving are systems in the impacts that time brings. Those Templars who lie, in effigies of mail, on their tombs in their temple church by the Inner Temple, long ago taken over by the lawyers as one of their inns of court—they, too, died in the serene confidence that their system was established and would endure. I think I can read that on their calm countenances as they lie, arms crossed, and sword and shield beside them.

Outside the choir boys are playing cricket—somewhat to the danger of the stained glass window it seems to me, not to mention that they are using Oliver Goldsmith's grave for what I would call first base.

The Templars didn't even know about cricket. Their principle information was about crusaders. There is a legend that those who lie with their legs crossed, below the knee were in one crusade, and those whose legs are crossed above the knee were in two.

The legend is scouted by the learned, but it serves to show how transitory are systems: their crossed legs which we know must have stood for much to them supply to us just a dispute for antiquarians. As world concerns go these Templars lived and died in vain—except that they built a church for their own glory to be safe with Kitselman and its ending. Her confession told of her growing disgust with Kitselman's habit of drinking to excess

ROYAL ARMS

But how privilege, in some form or other, does live and cling even in an age of Democracy! I see crossed legs everywhere. I see them in Piccadilly and Regent Street and Bond Street, where shopkeepers put up the Royal Arms over the door and gratuitously in brass letters and polished plate that lies are purveyors to the King. They are, by special appointment his purveyors in hats and boots and shirts and books and pipes and collars and crockery.

The difference I am told, between these shops and other shops is that the shops with the Royal Arms charge more for their merchandise which probably is the reason some Britons (and some Americans) patronize them. Whether the King really does any shopping in these places I do not know. Shops that do not cater by appointment to the King are not necessarily debarred therefore from all cross-legged privilege.

There are other Royalties. I have seen one shop that is by special appointment purveyor of chess or something of that sort, to His Majesty the King of Portugal. The King of Portugal. If I am not mistaken, now lives in lodgings in Bloomsbury

Systems change then, and only the symbols of them survive. A Scotsman who used to be a school teacher (but so was Carlyle) wrote the King's speech last week which was read in the House of Lords by Lord Chancellor Sankey and in the House of Commons by the Speaker. Captain C. A. Fitzroy Mr. Macdonald, the blushing author of it, sat modestly by in the House of Commons and appeared to be impressed with the good sense of it.

The Opposition however, did not think nearly so well of the speech. Which makes me think that in St. Stephens Hall I saw a statute of Somers. In this same Commons Somers once rose up to utter a word of mild criticism of a speech from the Throne and they sent him to the Tower.

Obituary

LEVY—Funeral service was conducted on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at Hayward's B.C. Funeral Company's Chapel for the late Henry Emanuel Levy. There was a very large attendance of friends and numerous beautiful floral offerings covered the casket and hearse. Rabbi Jack Levy conducted the service and interment was made in the Jewish Cemetery. The I.O.O.F. service at the grave side was conducted by Brother D. Dewar, acting N.G. of the Columbia Lodge No. 2, assisted by Brother P. E. Morley, acting chaplain. The I.O.O.F. attended in a body. Aldermen Litchfield represented the Five Warders of the City. The following acted as pallbearers: Messrs. I. M. Nodek, Harry I. Mailek, Chief of Police John Fry, Fire Chief Vernon Cleverly, and A. Henderson and James Wilby, representing the I.O.O.F.

BENNETT—The remains of the late Lillian Maude Beatrice Bennett are reposing at Hayward's B.C. Funeral Company's Chapel, from where the funeral will take place this afternoon at 3.30 o'clock. Rev. E. Moss will conduct the service and interment will take place in Ross Bay Cemetery.

WALKER—There passed away at an early hour yesterday at the residence of her son, 351 Walker Street, Edith Walker, widow of the late Mr. W. A. Walker. The deceased lived at 1351 Basil Avenue and had resided in Victoria for the past seven years. She was 84 years of age and born in Manchester, England. There survive to mourn her loss two sons, Alec. and James Walker and one brother, Ernest Howard, of Winnipeg. The remains are reposing at Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel and the date of the funeral will be given.

MASTRONG—There passed away on Sunday evening at the family residence, 80 Crease Avenue, Sandich, Mary Armstrong Mastrong, aged sixty-three, born in Berwick-on-Tweed, England, and a resident of this city for the past ten years. There survive her husband, Mr. Frederick Robert Armstrong, at home, and two sons, James and Kenneth Armstrong, in England. The funeral will take place on Wednesday at 3 o'clock from the Sands Funeral Chapel, and the remains will be laid to rest in the family plot at Ross Bay Cemetery.

BAKER—Funeral services were conducted yesterday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock from the Sands Funeral Chapel over the remains of Marjorie Kathleen (Dodie) Baker, who passed away last Friday at St. Joseph's Hospital. Relatives and a very large gathering of friends were in attendance and the many beautiful flowers testified to the popularity of the young lady. Rev. Arthur Roff Owen officiated, and the hymn sung was "Nearer My God to Thee." Messrs. Claude Armour, E. B. Armour, J. C. Armour, M. Pearson, H. Cook and R. Watson acted as pallbearers, and the remains were laid to rest in Ross Bay Cemetery.

CARSS—There passed away on Sunday, after a short illness, at St. Joseph's Hospital, William Frederick Orsini Carss, aged sixty-seven years of 1704 Richmond Avenue. The late Mr. Carss was born at Arnprior, Ontario, but had resided at Lumsden, Sask., since 1882. He came to this city three weeks ago. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Jean R. Carss, a daughter, Miss Arline Carss, Lumsden, Sask., and one son, William R. Carss, Kamsack, Sask. Funeral service was held yesterday afternoon, July 8, at 3 o'clock from the S. J. Curry & Sons Funeral Home. Rev. W. A. Guy officiated and during the service Mrs. Dowell sang "What a Friend We Have in Jesus" and "Lead, Kindly Light." Many friends were present and beautiful floral tributes were received. The remains were forwarded by the midnight boat to Lumsden, Sask., where interment will be made.

LOW—The death occurred on Sunday, July 7, at the Royal Jubilee Hospital of Mary Low, aged seventeen years, a native of Victoria. She is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Low, of 1894 Government Street. The funeral will take place on Wednesday afternoon from the Thomson Funeral Home at 2 o'clock. Interment will be in the Royal Oak Burial Park.

Four Are Injured in Los Angeles 'Quake

LOS ANGELES, July 8—Four persons, two men and two children, were injured in an earthquake which severely shook Los Angeles and communities within a thirty-mile radius at 6.45 a.m. today. These injuries were reported from Santa Fe Springs, an town fifteen miles south of here.

Telegraphed From Paris

THERE have been all sorts of air records made—the first transatlantic hop, the first longest nonstop flight, etc.—but the first nonstop transatlantic plane to carry a stowaway was the French machine, Yellow Bird, which took off from Old Orchard Innocent of the fact that it carried Arthur Schreiber, twenty-two-year-old boy. Here is a telephoto picture which was flashed from Paris. It shows Arthur being carried on the shoulders of an admiring throng upon the arrival of the airplane at Le Bourget airport, Paris, where the stowaway was greeted with almost as much acclaim as the flyers, Lotti, Assolant and Lefevre.

OKANAGAN CROPS

The Department of Agriculture yesterday issued its first accurate estimate of the Okanagan fruit crop placing it at 70 per cent of the 1928 figures and of much higher quality. The special crop bulletin issued by the department after careful investigation said:

"Fruit conditions throughout the Okanagan horticultural district are very promising. The crop, which our estimates show, is in the neighborhood of 70 per cent of the 1928 production, is of better quality.

"Taking everything into consideration, it would appear as though there should be no difficulty in moving this year's crop to good advantage.

"Vegetable crops are coming along in fine shape. The recent rains and cool, muggy weather has given all ground crops a great boost. So far, pests have not affected this crop to any appreciable extent, and present indications are for good yields."

LEGION DEDICATES HALL AT WHITEROCK

VANCOUVER, July 8.—Crowded to capacity, the new Canadian Legion Hall at Whiterock was dedicated Sunday afternoon during a service conducted by Archbishop De Pencier, supported by local clergy of the various communions. At the same time, a memorial tablet was dedicated to the memory of those who gave their lives as a result of war injuries.

FATAL PLANE CRASH

BERLIN, N.J., July 8.—Thomas W. Gurley, twenty-seven, an air mail pilot of Philadelphia, was killed tonight when his plane fell several hundred feet into a field near here. The plane burst into flames when it hit the ground and the pilot was badly burned.

Gurley was an employee of the Pitcairn Company and piloted a mail plane between New York and Washington. This was his day off and he had flown to Pine Valley, N.J., to visit a friend.

A special missionary service will be held in connection with the Fourspauge Gospel Lighthouse today, at 8 o'clock. "India" will be the subject, and the address will be illustrated with lantern slides, to be given by Rev. Carl Linden, Los Angeles.

DELEGATES ARE APPOINTED BY SAANICH BOARD

Two Important Resolutions to Be Brought Up by Reeve and Major Taylor at Convention

GARDEN PARTY WILL BE HELD ON JULY 24

Delegates for the forthcoming annual convention of the Municipal Boards of Trade of Vancouver Island, to be held in Victoria on July 11, were appointed last night by the Saanich Board of Trade.

Reeve William Crouch of Saanich will sponsor the resolution of the board which asks that the law now in force which requires a driver to carry his license on his persons or in his car when driving on a public highway, shall be amended in order to allow the holder to produce his license at any police station within twenty-four hours.

Major Lionel Taylor will speak to the resolution which has to do with the indescriminate broadcasting of signboards throughout the country. The resolution reads as follows: "Whereas the scenic beauties of the Island are in danger of being spoiled by the location of billsteps for advertisement purposes; therefore, be it resolved that the Government be asked to authorize the municipalities to regulate or prohibit such signs in residential areas and near scenic viewpoints."

Captain Nat Gray, vice-president of the Saanich Board of Trade, and Captain Babington will also attend the convention as representatives of the board.

The board again announced its intention of farewelling the daughter of the Campbell River power rights in a public ceremony. Commander Reeve, Monsignor Bruce, president of the board, and other members that both the Ensuimalt and Nanaimo Boards of Trade were in sympathy with this policy.

In response to a request made by the board, a communication from the Vancouver Island Coach Lines stated that arrangements would be made to have the coach, which starts from Victoria at 11 a.m., go through to Mount Newton, and to leave there at approximately 12:15 p.m.

The annual garden party of the board, instead of being held at the Agricultural Hall on July 17, as previously arranged, will take place at the home of Rev. M. Bruce, on Mondays Avenue, Saanichton, on Wednesday, July 24. Captain Nat Gray, Mr. H. Blakie and Mr. W. O. Wallace have been appointed to form a committee to make all the necessary arrangements for the event.

Major Taylor remarked that the accident which had taken place on Monday at the Point Colville corner, beyond the Mount Newton cross road, had been the eighth in occur at that particular spot. He understood that, some time since, Mr. P. Pemberton had made an offer of a piece of land which could be utilized for widening this particular corner, and he asked Reeve Crouch, why no use had been made of Mr. Pemberton's offer.

The reeve referred Major Taylor to Councillor Hagen, of Ward five, reminding him that the corner in question came within Councillor Hagen's province. "So you have to say," said Major Taylor, "that you will let Mr. Pemberton's property go by, just because Councillor Hagen will take no action."

"Most decidedly," answered the reeve. "I interfered in this matter. I should be taking allogether too nearly upon myself."

It was decided that the board would adjourn until the first Monday in September.

TRUCK DRIVER IS BADLY INJURED

Car Crashes Into Rear of Parked Automobile—Driver Believed to Have Been Thrown From Seat

An employee of the Palm Dairy was badly hurt about 12 o'clock last night when the light delivery truck he was driving crashed into the rear end of a car, owned by Mr. F. J. Cameron, of 810 Trutch Street, and parked on the north side of Fairfield Road, near Chester Street.

The delivery wagon was badly damaged, the radiator being smashed in and the engine wrenched from its bed. The windshield was completely broken, and it appears that the driver was thrown from his seat onto the boulevard. A passing motorist, hearing the crash, hurried to the scene, and found the driver lying on the boulevard with blood streaming from several severe cuts about the face. He was taken in the private car and hurried home.

When the police were notified the injured man had been removed, as that at an early hour this morning it was not possible to ascertain the name.

EN PASSANT

I saw a tulip raise her chalice red
Unto a tiny space of open sky,
Grey, huddled walls, grime-laden, low-roofed overhead,
And London's endless traffic thundered by.

A Sparrow in a humble window-box,
Beneath the care of some devoted hand,
Hard by, where ocean lines crawl the docks,
And Nature's fields to west are alien land.

Somehow, amid the squalor and the stress,
In that lone bloom I saw a sacred shrine,
And, see mine eyes had lost its loveliness,
My dreaming soul had sipped its proffered wine.

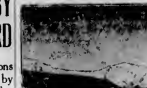
Advertising Men Meet



JASPER Park Lodge, Jasper, Alta., where the Western Daily Newspaper Advertising Managers' Association is holding its eleventh annual convention, yesterday and today. Advertising men from points west of Winnipeg to the Coast are attending this meeting. Mr. Alex. T. Stewart, advertising manager of The Colonist, is secretary-treasurer of the association.

City & District

July 1 Meeting—A meeting of the July 1 celebration committee will be held in the Sons of Canada Hall tonight at 8 o'clock to hear the financial report and other reports of the celebration.

New School—A permit was issued by Building Inspector James Barr at the City Hall yesterday to the Sisters of St. Ann Academy for construction of a four-room frame school on Heywood Avenue, at a cost of $6,000. Messrs. Lainer Bros. are the contractors for the work.

To Visit Jordan River—A number of aeroplanes have been reserved by the B.C. Electric Railway for the invitation to delegates to the Associated Boards of Trade of Vancouver Island convention, here this week, to the proposed visit to the hydro-electric development at Jordan River.

On Visit Here—Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Cleary, who have been motoring from California, are visiting here. Mrs. Cleary is well-known in the motion picture world as Mae McAvoy, and recently married Mr. Cleary. She was one of the first picture actresses to turn to sound pictures.

Choice Roses—The fine condition of the lot adjoining the McColl Brothers' nursery, Hillside Avenue and Johnson Streets, which has been removed from a derelict condition and converted into a beautiful garden, is the actual result of the proven by a bouquet of roses sent to The Colonist office.

University of Montreal Party—In the party of seventy-five members of the University of Montreal trans-Canada tour, which reached Winnipeg yesterday morning on route here, and which is in charge of Dr. Henry Laurent, dean of the faculty of commerce of the university, is Roch Pinard, Canada's oratorical champion, who recently won that honor at Toronto.

Sight-Seeing Trip—As guests of the Provincial Government and the city 500 cadets from the Lower Mainland will be taken on a sight-seeing trip today. The cadets will be taken to the Parliament Buildings, where they will view the Legislative Chamber and the museum with its many interesting and important items. Yesterday these lads visited Halifax Park and saw the beautiful Japanese gardens.

Reality Licences—It is pointed out at the Parliament Buildings that there are a number of real estate agents throughout the province who have evidently neglected to renew their licences for the year. The date for the taking out of renewals is July 1, and the law appears to have been overlooked in this respect by many. The matter is something that requires immediate attention on the part of the agents.

Gyro Meeting—A fine programme of music was provided at the Gyro Club luncheon yesterday in the Chamber of Commerce Cafe by the Northern Pacific Quartette, of St. Paul, under the leadership of Miss Irene Maloney. The singers delighted the clubmen with their splendid rendition of popular compositions, and were heartily applauded. The different members of the quartette were introduced, and Miss Maloney told of the experiences of the party since leaving Minnesota. Gyros having birthdays in the present month were presented with gifts.

Bathing in Vancouver—The bathing on the horse races at Lansdowne Park, Vancouver, continues to show an increase over that of the corresponding period last year. The attendances days of the racing meet, commencing with Saturday, June 29, and ending with Saturday, July 6, showed a total augmented through the pari-mutuels of $618,744 as compared for the corresponding first days of 1928 meet there of $461,104. The amounts each day that they were as follows: First day, $104,341; second day, $126,738; third day, $85,583; fourth day, $74,372; fifth day, $81,983; sixth day, $31,200; seventh day, $126,386.

CHURCHES JOIN IN THANKSGIVING

Majority of City Congregations Give Thanks for King George's Restoration to Health

Following in most instances, the general ritual used at Westminster Abbey for the same purpose, a big majority of the Victoria churches on Sunday joined in the Empire-wide service of thanksgiving for King George's restoration to health.

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, Premier and Mrs. Tolmie and Miss Tolmie, Mayor and Mrs. Macconnell, the Hon. R. H. Pooley and Mrs. Pooley, the Hon. W. A. McKenzie and Mrs. McKenzie, the Hon. W. Atkinson and Mrs. Atkinson and Mr. D. C. Coleman, vice-president of the Western lines of the Canadian Pacific Railway, were among the big congregations which attended the service at Christ Church Cathedral. Very Rev. Dean Quainton was the preacher, and in his sermon emphasized the place of prayer as an element of co-operating with God. In his message to his people the King had realized how much he owed to the prayers of his people.

At St. John's Church about two hundred members of the Cruiser Order came as a delegation to the thanksgiving service, when Rev. T. A. P. Church was the preacher. Referred to the occasion as a special day of thanksgiving, the Rev. Mr. Church

Other churches which had a thanksgiving service were St. Barnabas' Church, where the preacher was Rev Father Evans; the Metropolitan, with Rev. Dr. W. J. Sipprell preaching; St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Rev. H. F. Cuttrell preaching; the First United Church, Rev. A. E. Greenforth, D.D., preaching, and First Baptist Church.

DIRECTOR OPENS SUMMER SCHOOL

Mr. John Kyle Inaugurates Annual Five-Weekly Sessions, With 350 Students in Attendance

In the unavoidable absence of Dr. Willis, superintendent of education, Mr. John Kyle, the director, officiated at the annual opening of the Provincial Summer School for Teachers yesterday morning.

The proceedings took place in the main auditorium at the high school, with about 350 teacher students in the audience. After Mr. Kyle's brief address they scattered into the various classrooms and by half-past 9 o'clock most of the classes were under way as promptly as possible beginning the five weeks' programme which lay ahead. By 9 o'clock in the afternoon the organization had settled into its stride so well that even the main office was practically deserted.

In his opening address the director, after welcoming the students, regretted that Dr. Willis had pointed out last year, viz, that this was a holiday, school to provide a refresher course in certain subjects. It was intended to be both pleasurable and profitable. In order that the students should not feel the classes onerous, work and play were combined. The department had to wish to send any teacher back to his duties tired.

Under the head of relaxation, Mr. Kyle placed the Friday evening concert to be given by Miss Doreen Davidson, the American Opera Company, and Arline Falconryluch, pianist. There will be the usual Wednesday evening dances each week, and on Saturday there will be a visit to the Provincial Archives by invitation of the architect, Mr. John Hoole, who will personally conduct the first party through so that subsequent visits may be made with a general knowledge of the arrangement of the exhibits.

All classes begin at the routine time the morrow, 8 o'clock.

PLAYING FIELD IN ESQUIMALT AGAIN DEBATED

Deputation Makes Plea to Council to Clear Land, So Work Can Start as Soon as Possible

URGENT NEED IS STRESSED

A deputation from the Esquimalt Playing Fields Association appeared on the Esquimalt Council last evening, appealing for the clearance of the four-acre piece of land which the association acquired early in the year from the council through an exchange with the Hudson's Bay Company.

Mr. Arthur O. Young, member of the association, placed before the councillors a petition signed by more than two hundred ratepayers for the clearing of the property, so that the association could commence work on the grounds as soon as possible. In his plea Mr. Young stated that Esquimalt was badly in need of some place for the children of the municipality and the various athletic organizations on which to play their games. In concluding he said that if the property was properly fitted up and the Playing Fields Association never used it at all, it would be useful in many ways to the district. The land is situated on Lyall Street.

Reeve James Elrick reminded the council that the property belonged to the municipality, and thought it was for them to decide be of use to the district, if the council decided to have it cleared.

"As I understand, if the plans of the association go through, games of every nature will be played. Then if it is suitable, fine; if it is not suitable, then don't clear," stated the Reeve.

"It would cost the council between $300 and $400 to clear and drain this land, and if it be done, what guarantee have we that the Playing Fields Association will proceed through with their promises?" said Councillor W. J. Cox.

Councillor Alexander Lockley, in voicing his opinion, reminded the committee present that the Royal Athletic, Crescent and Beacon Hill Parks were under the control of the City Council, and thought that it would be the right thing that this park, if it was going to be established, be under the Esquimalt Council.

Mr. Young, in reply to Councillor Lockley's suggestion, stated he did not care who controlled the park as long as it was built. He further suggested that if the council intended to clear the land it should be done this year, so that games could be played there during the Winter months.

It was moved and seconded that Mr. H. G. Bourne, the engineer, look into the cost of clearing and report back at the next meeting of the council.

"I tell you, gentlemen," said the great explorer to the crowd in the hotel smoking-room, who were listening breathlessly, "you can't imagine what things are like out in the Arctic regions. "Oh, I don't know," said one "Even if we haven't seen it, we can imagine what it looks like." "I doubt it. It's impossible until you've seen it; until you've stood there, a small, insignificant atom, surrounded by vast stretches of white, cold, silent." "Yes, yes, I've been like that." "Really? Where did you go?" "Hotel Esquimalt." I appeared in public in a dress shirt."

"Ambrose Bierce, our greatest short story writer, once said, he only made $500 or $600 a year, and he killed himself in his old age rather than live on charity."

Davidson, the American Opera Company, and Arline Falconryluch, pianist. There will be the usual Wednesday evening dances each week, and on Saturday there will be a visit to the Provincial Archives by invitation of the architect, Mr. John Hoole, who will personally conduct the first party through so that subsequent visits may be made with a general knowledge of the arrangement of the exhibits.

All classes begin at the routine time the morrow, 8 o'clock.

"Oh, course Bierce knew that trashy writing always sells better than good writing, but anyhow he felt pretty bitter.

"He told me one day that he felt like the colored preacher who asked his flock for a $20 raise, saying: "Brederen and sisters, Ah can't preach heah and boa d in Heaven."

Hats and Frocks Show New Features

THIS jacket ensemble, No. 1, illustrates the vogue for checks and the scarf line, tied at one side, declares it to be one of the newest models. The pleated skirt of the one piece sleeveless frock, and the jacket which is worn with it, are of navy blue flat crepe. The bodice and scarf are red and blue and yellow instead of the usual white, yellow being new in the trickier combinations of the moment. No. 2 is a modish little hat of pink Bangkok straw with inset of pink and black felt, and a pebble buckle, from the house of Blanche. No. 3 is a new "picture" silhouette, borrowed from famous beauties of other days, has no respect for fabrics of narrow width. Yards and yards of warp print taffeta are used in this flattering frock done in the Lanvin manner. A rich blending of nasturtium tones on a grey background is the color combination of the gown, but the bow of grosgrain, posed at the centre of the big petals of taffeta, is dark blue.—Photograph of No. 2 is by Henri Manuel, of Paris.

MUGFORD—EVE

The marriage took place at "Breadalbane," on Saturday evening, when Rev. J. Campbell, D.D., united in marriage Violet Elinor, youngest daughter of Mr and Mrs. H. W. Eve, 1407 Finlayson Avenue and Mr. Robert Burns Mugford, of Sooke, youngest son of Mr and Mrs. R. J. Mugford, of Sooke. The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a frock of delphinium blue crepe satin and hat to match, and carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses. Miss Marjorie Higgins was bridesmaid and wore a frock of pale pink georgette and a black picture hat she carried a bouquet of bridal roses. Mr. Bert Mugford, of Sooke, was best man.

Following the marriage ceremony the bridal party was escorted from the clergyman's residence to the home of the bride's parents by a number of motor policemen, in honor of the groom, who is a member of the Victoria police force. The house was decorated with blue and pink delphiniums, and during the reception the bridal party stood under an arch of pink and white flowers. Mrs Alec Scott and Mrs George Jones were responsible for the floral arrangements. A two-tier wedding cake centred the supper table.

Following the reception at the home Mr and Mrs. Mugford took by motor for a trip up the Island, and on their return to Victoria will reside at the Broadway Apartments.

Among the out-of-town guests at the wedding were the groom's parents, Mr and Mrs. R. J. Mugford, of Sooke; his uncle Mr. Jack Bradley, of Sooke, and Mr. and Mrs. George Jones, of Sooke.

Among the many wedding presents was a set of cutlery from the employees of David Spencer, Ltd., where the bride had been employed.

A Letter From London

Many Canadians in Town—Art Exhibitions Include Whistler's Venetian Etchings—Opera Season Draws to Close—Is World on Eve of New Renaissance—Sculptor Takes London by Storm—Remarkable New Music

London is about to experience the largest invasion of Canadians it has seen since the Wembley. The Canadian Club members, the party of newspaper men and the party of overseas exchange teachers and students not to mention the lawyers who flock over here with their Privy Council cases, and the famine committee contingents intent on precisions, garden parties, Ranalagh and all other amenities of the London season, are all arriving en masse.

They are met by gorgeous June weather that bathes the city in sunlight and in the evening there are now so many charming places to reach by motor, the Elizabethan "Great Posiers" at Egham, the newly opened Engineers' Club in Lord Roberts' Ascot Home, and, if more frivolity is needed, the very attractive Cafe de Paris at Bray, and the still more fashionable Murray's Hungarian Club at Maidenhead.

Ascot, in spite of the absence of the King and Queen, and the consequent loss of the pageant provided by their arrival on the course, had been as crowded as ever, and I hear that the frocks worn by the women were more than usually lovely.

The next excitement will be the garden party given to overseas visitors by Lord and Lady Clarendon, in their historic Hampstead home, Pitt House, where the lovely gardens and the artistic treasures add to the pleasure of being entertained on this kindly host and hostess.

ART EXHIBITIONS

Every day a new picture exhibition is announced and Londoners have been lucky lately in having several shows that are more interesting than usual. Whistler's Venetian etchings, for instance, that make a first appeal by their ethereal delicacy and charm, and a second by their story. They were commissioned by the Fine Arts Society at a time when the great artist was absolutely penniless after his lawsuit with Ruskin fifty-one years ago, and the acumen of the generous committee has been more than repaid both in cash and kudos.

Another exhibition that I am bound to acknowledge as interesting, though I disliked one aspect of it intensely, is that of the work of Edouard Goerg, a Frenchman born in Sydney of a French father and Irish mother, who is holding his first show at the Paul Guillaume-Brandon Davis Galleries.

The sales rooms at this time of the year are even more interesting than the exhibitions. Next Monday the New Bond Street Rooms will see the sale of Cowper's original letters to Lady Hesketh, telling her the story of the dog and the water lily.

Another important sale at Messrs Hodgson's Rooms, in Chancery Lane, takes place this week, when seventeen of Lord Byron's letters about a street row in which his Shelley, Trelawny and a dragon, were mixed up at Pisa in March, 1822, will be sold together with some letters and manuscripts of Coleridge.

OPERA

The opera season is drawing to its close, the honors, of course, being carried off by Chaliapin for his marvelous performance as Boris in "Boris Goudenow" and by the Lee-American prima donna, Rosa Ponselle, whose singing and acting in "Norma" evoked tremendous enthusiasm from her audiences.

The next excitement at Covent Garden will be Diaghilev's Russian Ballet. People who believe that we are on the eve of another renaissance, find justification in the impression of the complete lack of interest in nearly every art. Maurice Lambert's sculpture is one expression, and another is the music lately composed by his brother, Constant, and broadcast by the B.B.C. last Friday evening. Paul Hindemith has just produced a new opera called "Latest News," which is sending all the critics into a dither. America seems to be producing most of the novelty in the way of literature, for I can think of nothing so original as "John Brown's Body" produced in England this year.

NEW SCULPTOR

A new sculptor has taken London by storm. Maurice Lambert's work, now on view at the Tooth Galleries in Bond Street, is quickly being covered by the little red dots meaning "sold" because it combines beauty with originality of both conception and execution. He has actually invented new materials and a new technique, and even timid people who eschew novelty must admit that the world spiritual beauty of his "Flight of Gulls," geometrical space outlined in aluminium, by which means he has caught perfectly the picture of movement of the birds in glittering sunshine, the strength of his "Fighting Swordfish," in bronze and red concrete, or the uncanny beauty of the flowing line in the cast iron and marble Aphrodite.

Mr Lambert, who is still in his twenties, comes of a family of artists of mixed nationality. His father born in Petrograd of an American father and English mother, became a naturalized Australian and a painter of international reputation. His young brother, Constant Lambert, is a composer who has had two of his ballets performed in London and Buenos Aires.

MISS ROSENBERG

One of the most interesting personalities who will frequent the House of Commons, as, indeed, she has long been in the habit of doing, is Miss Rosenberg, Mr Ramsay MacDonald's clever secretary. Since her association with Mr. MacDonald in that capacity when he was leader of the opposition in 1923 this slip of a girl with her dark hair and eager vivid face has made herself persona grata, not only to her own party but to members of every other. She seems always to be able to find time to give a helping hand to everyone who wants to profit by the competent brains that have made her rise in a few years from the post of assistant to the editor of a mining journal to the very important and responsible post of private secretary to a Prime Minister.

"I am not going to marry" she claims, well knowing that she can not gain by taking into management." Then the sure alternative seems to be to swim the Channel.

EMPIRE'S GREATNESS THEME OF LECTURE

Mr. Herbert Garrison Describes British Commonwealth as "World Venice With Its Fleets of Ships"

A world Venice, with the sea for its streets, was the unforgettable description of the British Empire displayed by Mr. Herbert Garrison, well-known Empire lecturer who is touring through Canada, in his address at the Chamber of Commerce auditorium last night.

In brilliant word pictures, supported by bewildering figures and statistics, the lecturer painted the extent, greatness and infinite variety of the British Empire, especially for acclaimed Canada, which he termed the keystone of the arch of empire. Referring to his recent view of the Rockies, he said he was astonished that Eastern Canadians did not come first to see their own great mountain land before going to Europe.

Passing southward across the Pacific he described the island continent of Australia and the wonderland of New Zealand inhabited, he stated, by the most wonderful native race in the world, the Maoris who had given members of Parliament, clergy and lawyers to the community of that Dominion. Vividly he sketched the romantic and rapid rise of the great cities of Hong Kong and Singapore and the opening of the Malay States to civilization and commerce.

The British in India he compared to the familiar figure of the London policeman, preserving peace and order in a land of many diverse races and religions. Referring to Aden and Perim, the lecturer stated that the British race controlled a hundred gate and key positions of the globe, which expressed dominance were equivalent in military value to an army of a million men.

Alluding in rapid review to the great British possessions in Africa, where no slavery can live under the Union Jack, and pictures the great guardian rock of Gibraltar, the lecturer emphasized that God had given the Empire to the British race for a great and definite purpose, not for aggrandizement, but for service to touch the nations with the ethical ideals of Britain who founded her empire, not upon militarism but upon the Bible, upon righteousness. The speaker believed that the federation of the Anglo-Saxon-Celtic people embracing the empire and the United States was the one real, spiritual league of nations. United they would maintain the peace of the world. At several points in his address, the lecturer pressed the story of the meaning of such an empire and promised to elucidate the meaning of its great history in his address tonight, on "The Revelation Discovery of the Age."

Shower for Nanaimo Bride-Elect

NANAIMO, July 8.—Mrs. Frank Cunliffe, Mrs. T. W. Martindale, Mrs. Thomas Cunningham and Mrs. Robert Harvey, of Victoria, were hostesses at a miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Lorna Coburn, a bride-elect, held at the home of the former, Stewart Avenue, last evening.

Part of the programme was occupied by a guessing contest, following which the familiar notes of the wedding march were played by Mrs. Newman and a lallipuian brilal party appeared. Little Marguerite Fry was the bride for the occasion, gowned in white satin, en train, and wearing the traditional wedding veil, held in place with orange blossoms, and carrying a bouquet of roses. The groom was Donald Cunliffe, attired in a black satin suit. Bebby Harvey, dressed as a page in white satin, wheeled into view a decorated tea wagon laden with lovely gifts.

Dainty refreshments were served from a table of artistic appointments, centred with a bowl of roseBuds and mauve and pink sweet peas, entwined with delicately tinted tulle. Presiding were Mrs. A. E. Planta, Mrs Oliver Fry, Mrs. W. Lewis and Mrs. J. Shaw.

The recipients were beautifully decorated with seasonable blooms. Teas were served in the garden. Marguerite Cunliffe presented the guest of honor with a beautiful bouquet, and with Carmen Planta, Vancouver, and Dare Nixon, in turn opened the door.

Other guests were Mrs. S. Saunders, Mrs. W. Gladhoin, Mrs. W. Mitchell, Mrs. B. Lane, Mrs Campbell Dow, Mrs. Fred King, Mrs. Murray Martindale and the Misses Gladys Hindmarch, Miss Dorothy Trawford, Miss E. Hall, Miss Rita Cunningham, Miss Evelyn Keighley and Miss Dobeson.

Fashion Fancies

By Marie Belmont

An evening wrap of taffeta is a welcome change from the velveta and satin of last season. A short wrap of this material is extremely smart with a full skirted evening frock.

The stunning wrap depicted above is of turquoise blue taffeta, always an effective color for formal wear. The three large chars at the back stress a new note. The circular peplum that flares from the hip covers the beaufiant skirt under it. Other interesting details are the small ward collar and the tucks on the cuffs.

Y.M.C.A. JUNIORS ARE UNDER COVER

Scores of City's Young Boys Wend Way to Annual Summer Camp at Beaver Lake

Scores of the city's young boys wended their way to Beaver Lake yesterday morning and afternoon to go under the canvas at the annual Y.M.C.A. Summer camp. As in previous years, swimming will undoubtedly be a major event on the 1929 programme.

For the past few weeks Archie McKinnon, physical director at the Y.M.C.A., and Vivian Shoemaker, boys' work secretary, have been supervising a swimming campaign at the tank in their headquarters, and now it will be continued at the Beaver Lake camp. Each day as the youngsters enter the water capable instructors will be on hand to teach them the various strokes and tutor them in the finer points of the aquatic pastime. Their presence will also prevent the possibility of accident.

The camp is operated under the regulations established by the British Columbia Camp Directors' Association, a body of responsible experienced camp officials who are endeavoring to maintain a high standard of dependability and efficiency to assure the growth of organized camping.

For the past nine years Beaver Lake has been the merry rendezvous of hundreds of Victoria youngsters and has afforded them many happy memories to look back upon in years to come. This year's gathering is expected to be one of the most successful in the Y.M.C.A.'s history, and officials are looking forward to a banner year.

The Y.M.C.A. Camp Standardization Commission has set some strict rules for its branches and that is one reason why the children are under the best of care and supervised by well-trained instructors while under canvas.

STUDY FOX FARMS IN UNITED STATES

Mr. D. M. McDonald Returns From Tour in California of Fur Farming

Mr. D. M. McDonald arrived home Saturday from an extensive trip through the United States in the interest of fox breeding.

One of the finest fox farms in California is a beautifully equipped ranch located on Mount Low, near Los Angeles.

Among the things that interested him most was the increased interest in the States of Canada and California in the development and improving of high-class breeding stock.

In discussing the subject with one of the largest fur dealers in Los Angeles, the manager informed him that his fur department had increased over 80 per cent in the last two years, also stating since January of this year his firm had sold more skins consisting of two fox skins than in any year previous, and also a number of three-skin stoles.

Another matter of interest was an address delivered by Dr. Dixon to the Southern California fox farmers on the proper feeding of foxes, which was today admitted to be of great importance. He stated he had found that the economic feeding of horse meat was without doubt, the greatest detriment to foxes for the production of fur. He warned them not to feed horse meat more than three months in the twelve in the period between November to February.

One of the most scientific methods, and one which has been carried out for some time, was reported from a fox rancher from Sacramento, Calif., whose ranch Mr. McDonald visited. This ranch is personally visited. This ranch is located near an irrigation ditch and the ranch is flooded daily during the extreme hot period until the water is approximately one inch over the floor of the pens. Shelves are placed all around the pens in order that the foxes may keep out of the water while it is at its height. This water keeps the ranch cool till late in the afternoon and is dry for the evening. This experiment has proved successful for the last two years, and he has been able to raise some very fine pups.

Find Children Lost in Woods For Three Days

LIVERPOOL, N.S., July 8.—Search for the three children, lost in the forest back of the Queen County village for three days and nights, ended successfully last evening when the little girls were found alive.

Bruce Hazel Hall, aged seven, Doris Martin, five, and her sister Mildred, four, were missed from their homes at noon on Thursday, two hundred men had assigned to woods in the gradually waning hope that the children would be discovered in safety.

They are now in the care of doctors, but their recovery from the exposure is felt to be sure. Their clothes had been almost completely torn from their bodies by branches and brambles. Hazel Hall, the eldest of the three, said they had followed a new road on Thursday morning, when they went to play on the edge of the greatest unbroken forest in Nova Scotia, stretching almost one hundred miles without a dwelling. The children had slept under trees. They had been able to find plenty of water in the moss and mud and had lessened the bite of hunger by eating berries.

BROADWAY BABIES CONTINUES TODAY

Capitol Presents Unusual Feature, With Alice White in Star Part

It's not unusual for a tale of the world's jaunt Broadway to contain a "bit" heifer, but, few films sport a trio of torrid trippers!

"Broadway Babies," the current First National talking and singing Vitaphone attraction at the Capitol Theatre, today and Wednesday, however, presents that trio of charms with the star, Alice White, and her room and chorus-mates, Marion "Peanuts" Byron and Sally Eilers. A real "row" of a supporting cast also figures, with Charles Delaney opposite the star, Fred Kohler and Louis Mathneux as racketeers, Maurice Black, noted for his stage portrayal of a gunman, as another gangster, and Joseph Lee at the head of a chorus of sixty girls.

COLUMBIA John Miljan, now in THEATRE support of Irene Rich in "The Desired Woman," the Warner Bros.' production at the Columbia Theatre, was born in Lead, South Dakota, and educated at St. Mary's Academy. He here was identified with stock company productions until in 1918 he joined the Eleventh Marines, and served in France. After the armistice he made a tour there as an entertainer for the troops. Since he started in pictures with Shirley Mason in 1922, he has been identified with roles as "heavies", usually with a sense of humor.

PLAYHOUSE The fifth of Gene THEATRE Stratton - Porter's novels appears on the screen at the Playhouse Theatre, where "The Harvester" is now being shown. All of these pictures have been directed by James Leo Meehan, son-in-law of the authoress, and this last one was filmed on the authoress's estate in Indiana.

The first of these films was "The Girls of the Limberlost." Then followed "The Keeper of the Bees," "Laddie," and "The Magic Garden."

Natalie Kingston and Orville Caldwell are starred in the present film.

AMUSEMENTS

Capitol—"Broadway Babies," starring Alice White.

Columbia—Clara Bow in "Wings."

Columbia—"The Desired Woman," featuring Irene Rich.

Dominion—"A Dangerous Woman," starring Clive Brooks.

Playhouse—"The Harvester," with Natalie Kingston.

ELABORATE PLANS PRECEDE 'WINGS'

Twenty Months' Work Required for Epic of Air at Columbia Theatre

Only after a period of combined preparation and actual production lasting over a period of nearly twenty months, "Wings," Paramount's epic of the air, was ready.

"Wings" now showing at the Colisium Theatre, was the "pet" of the Paramount studio. It was recognized as the great achievement, that would carry to fame, not only the names of Wellman and Hubbard, but also the featured players, Charles Rogers and Richard Arlen, who were associated with Clara Bow and Jobyna Ralston in the principal roles.

Seven months were devoted to the filming of ground and air battles sequences at San Antonio, Texas. An exact duplicate of a sector of St. Mihiel was constructed under the supervision of those who fought at the famous original.

"GOES TROPICAL" IN JUNGLE FILM

"A Dangerous Woman" In Feature Offering at Dominion Theatre Today

What Africa's strange and mystic spell can do to a white woman who goes to live in the torpid jungle region was shown in "A Dangerous Woman," with Paramount in the title role, at the Dominion Theatre yesterday.

As the wife of Clive Brook, British colonial representative in the primeval land of aboriginal negro tribes, Baclanova is cast in a part which gives her full opportunity to provide that spell-binding, artistic acting which has made her famous as the talking screen's most sinuous siren.

As the plot develops we find her a huntress of men who is seemingly as merciless as the lions that prowl the Congo country. The climax of her romantic stalking of human prey is vivid, tumultuous, it leaves a definite imprint of amazement upon the audience.

NAPOLEON HAD THE RIGHT IDEA

Can't Blame Waterloo on His Diet

"An army travels on its stomach," said Napoleon. He was always very particular that his soldiers were well and properly fed. And it is said of him that he applied this same rule to himself.

Napoleon's "An army travels on its stomach," holds an excellent lesson for you in your daily life. Eat right. Eat foods which give you all these precious elements of nutrition which promote growth, energy and endurance.

One of the most valuable of such foods is Grape-Nuts. Grape-Nuts supplies in crisp, delicious form, five nourishing elements. There are dextrins, maltose and other carbohydrates, which serve as energy; iron, which enriches the blood; phosphorus, which develops strong bones, teeth and bones; protein, which is the essential muscle and body-building element; and the important vitamins B and G.

The crispness of Grape-Nuts is an added benefit. It compels you to chew Grape-Nuts so that you may enjoy the wonderful nut like flavour to the full. And thereby, you stimulate the secretion of the salivary and gastric juices in the mouth and stomach, thus promoting good digestion.

And not only does Grape-Nuts promote good digestion because it must be chewed, but Grape-Nuts itself is one of the easiest of all foods to digest. Made from whole wheat and malted barley, it is prepared for easy digestion by a special process which calls for two distinct bakings, requiring in all twenty-two hours in the huge ovens.

Sunny mornings

STEP OUT these glorious summer mornings. Enjoy the invigoration of Grape-Nuts for breakfast. Combined with its world's favourite flavour are five vital elements of nutrition; crispness to give healthful exercise to teeth and gums; easy digestibility. All grocers sell Grape-Nuts—in wax-wrapped packages. It's ready to serve with milk or cream. Four teaspoonfuls is a helping—less than one cent's worth.

Happy Jack Partly Redeems Himself

—By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

The error that may hopeless seem
Some day you may in part redeem.
—Happy Jack Squirrel.

For several days after the visit of Chatterer the Red Squirrel to the Old Orchard his big cousin, Happy Jack the Grey Squirrel, kept out of sight as much as possible. He no longer bragged, he no longer boasted, he no longer went about puffed up with vanity. He had run from one much smaller than himself and all the feathered folk on the Old Orchard had seen him.

So Happy Jack kept by himself as much as possible and brooded over his wrongs. He wasn't afraid of Chatterer although to see him run you would have thought he was. It wasn't fear that had made him run. It was simply a feeling of his own helplessness to prevent the quicker moving Chatterer from tormenting him. Chatterer could run in and nip him and be away again before Happy Jack could get back at him. He had long ago found out that the easiest way of avoiding being tormented was to run. And so he had run. But he knew that his neighbors didn't know this and thought he had run because he was afraid. He had lost the reputation he had won when he had fought with Robber the Rat.

"Don't you care, my dear," said Mrs. Happy Jack. "I know all about it. I've run from Chatterer myself."

"But I do mind," replied Happy Jack. "Other folks don't know it, if you do. Even the children don't know it. They thought I was a hero and now they think I'm a coward. The worst of it is, there isn't anything I can do about it."

"But there was something he could do about it. The opportunity came in a most unexpected way. Black Pussy the Cat surprised Happy Jack on the ground in the Old Orchard. Black Pussy had been lazily creeping up behind him. He started for the nearest tree Black Pussy started after him. Scrapper the Kingbird, who chanced to see it, began to jeer. Once more Happy Jack the boaster was running away.

Happy Jack reached the tree and he was just beyond the reach of Black Pussy. Then he turned and clinging to the tree head down, he barked almost in Black Pussy's face. Black Pussy standing on her hind feet, reached up with her forefeet and tried to scratch Happy Jack. Happy Jack was smart enough to keep out of reach. Suddenly he dashed down so quickly that Black Pussy did not have time to do a thing. Happy Jack hid Black Pussy right on the end of her nose. Black Pussy gave a howl and turned sharply. This was more than she had bargained for. Happy Jack raced down the tree and after her. Across the Old Orchard they went, Happy Jack actually chasing Black Pussy.

"Don't you care, my dear," said Mrs. Happy Jack

When they reached Farmer Brown's dooryard, Black Pussy whirled with her back up and her tail swelled, spitting and snarling for all she was worth. At the foot of the old stone wall facing her, Happy Jack stopped. He too, growled and barked. Gradually Black Pussy settled down. All the time her tail was twitching. Every moment or so there would be a deep growl deep in her throat. Happy Jack remained right where he was and dared Black Pussy to come nearer.

Meanwhile there had been another change of opinion in the Old Orchard. The Old Orchard folk had seen Black Pussy running with Happy Jack at her heels. They promptly forgot having seen Happy Jack running with Chatterer the Red Squirrel at his heels.

"Hurrah for Happy Jack!" they cried.

As for Happy Jack's children, they were once more filled with great pride.

Even a child can understand the reason!

THE test of a tire is so simple that even a child can select the best. There are two main parts to a tire—the tread and the carcass. The tread to grip the road. The carcass to withstand the strain. Test any tread by pressing your hand on it. Does it grip? Test any carcass by stretching the cords of which it is made. Are they springy, lively, full of stretch?

Make these two tests on a Goodyear Tire at a Goodyear Selected Dealer's. Feel the deep, sharp-edged blocks of the All-Weather Tread grip your hand as it grips the road. Use the dealer's cord-testing machine and see how much more a Goodyear Supertwist cord contains than an ordinary cord. Even a child will choose "the world's greatest tire." In every town in Canada large enough to support a good tire dealer, there is at least one Goodyear Selected Dealer.

A highly diversified and delightful programme will be presented over Victoria's radio station at 8 15 this evening, when the Sunset Trio of violin, cello and piano, will entertain the large audience of CFCT. The majestic hour with the Sunset Broadcasters will open with Franz von Suppe's overture, "La Burlesque" and will be followed by "The Dance of the Hours" from the ballet music of Ponchinelli's "Gioconda." Listeners in the local broadcasting station will also enjoy Chaminade's "Serenade," and Jacques Offenbach's "Apache Dance," which will in turn, give way to "La Serenata," or "Angel's Serenade" from the pen of Braga. Otto Langer's selection of "Reminiscences of Tschaikowsky," will be presented for the pleasure of radio enthusiasts along with "The Song of the Evening Star" from Richard Wagner's celebrated opera, "Tannhauser." Tonight's programme over CFCT will draw to a tuneful conclusion with the playing of a selection from Kalman's successful "The Gypsies Princess."

At 11 o'clock this evening the "mikes" in the Victoria radio station will be in operation in the ballroom of the Crystal Gardens, an hour of popular dance melodies will ring out on Canada's Pacific Coast, the Canadian Radio Station Purchase "Wee" will sign off soon after midnight.

Mr. J. D. Rockefeller Keeps 90th Birthday

TARRYTOWN N.Y., July 8.—John D Rockefeller, master of the art of golf, celebrated his ninetieth birthday anniversary today.

Observance of the day brought little deviation from the daily routine by which the veteran oil magnate has learned to be healthy and happy.

Entering his ninty-first year Mr Rockefeller is the dean of world-fame. Thomas A. Edison and President Hindenburg of Germany are eighty-two. George Haven Putnam, the publisher, is eighty-five. Cecien Chamberlain the grand old man of Finance, is eighty-seven.

Transcanada Canoe Trip Interrupted

SASKATOON, July 8.—Dick Lesage, French-Canadian canoeist, who is with the Paquin Transcanada canoe trip, was in Saskatoon Saturday before leaving for Prince Albert, where he will meet Paul Paquin.

Paquin left Edmonton Friday in a twelve-foot canoe for Prince Albert. The canoe in which the two men left English Bay, Vancouver, was cracked during a seven-mile portage near the headwaters of the North Saskatchewan River, near Rocky Mountain House, and so they could only get a small canoe. Lesage had to make the trip to Prince Albert by train. The paddlers expect to leave there in a few days for The Pas, then via Lake Winnipeg to the Lake of the Woods.

CHAPTER XXVIII

Towards six o'clock Inspector Bloor came to see me.

"And I thought you a good fellow and a brave man," he groaned as he took my hand. "but a bit of a simpleton, Major. It's I who was the simpleton. You gave me the chance of my life and I threw it away.

"You know now, then, that we had Joseph in our hands?"

"I'm just as bad," said I, "as that the real Ruben Sams landed at Liverpool this morning. Joseph has been playing at a higher game than ordinary petty robberies. He is the most amazing person we've been up against for many years. He left the Midan Hotel at six o'clock this morning. I have just come from searching his rooms. Not a paper, not an address, not a single thing there to help us. And to think," he groaned, a note almost of passionate regret in that pleasant, even tone of his, "he was my man last night—the greatest capture of my life. I hadn't the sense to believe you, Major."

"It can't be helped," I sighed. "We shall get him before many hours have passed.

"Why do you think so?" he asked eagerly. "You see, I can't afford to let even an idea of yours pass now, Major."

"Because," I explained. "I don't believe that he would leave the country without going down to Greenley. He's got an account—an account of hate, I suppose you'd call it—to settle with Martin Hews."

"It's possible," Bloor admitted. "I'll send three men down there tonight. I must be off now I couldn't rest until I had owned up to you, Major. I'm sorry—I can't say more."

I ordered an early dinner in my rooms. Afterwards I began to realize my weariness. My sitting-room was warm and comfortable and I fell asleep.

I was awakened by a soft tapping at the door. I glanced at my watch and sat up. It was only nine o'clock, so I could not have been asleep for more than twenty minutes. The tapping was repeated. I took my automatic from under a newspaper by my side and acknowledged the summons.

"Come in," I enjoined.

The door opened. Mr Leopold smiling at me deprecatingly as he unwound a thick scarf from his neck took off a pair of motor glasses and advanced into the room.

"You will excuse this interruption, Major," he begged. "I have just motored up from the country. I am the bearer of a very important message. You permit that I rid myself of some of these things?"

He deposited an enormous ulster, his hat and other impedimenta upon one of my chairs.

"Are you alone?" I asked him.

"Absolutely alone," he assured me. "I come in peace, Major. You can search me if I am armed."

I believed him, but I saw no reason to run any risks. I crossed the room and passed my hands over his pockets and body. There was no doubt that he was telling the truth. I locked the door in case he was only an advance guard of more troublesome visitors, and pointed to a chair.

"Necessity," I told him, "is teaching me caution. I can't imagine what you have to say to me that I should want to listen to or take any interest in, but since you are here, sit down and get along with it."

"It is unfortunate," he remarked, "that I do not seem to have established myself as persona grata with you, Major."

The man's insolence was amazing.

"If there is one person I resolved, 'who has done more than any other to earn my distrust and dislike, it is you. Even last night, during the great raid, you were helping your master.

"Naturally," he admitted. "I am so. you have doubtless opined, a wolf. Life, however, is purely a matter of self-interest, with you as with myself. I should imagine. You happen to be on one side and I on the other, but we may still be honorable opponents."

I came very near losing my temper then.

"If you want my opinion of you," I said, "it is that you're a rascal. That's the first thing I have to say. The second is this. If you want anything from me, you'll open the way to negotiations by telling me what has become of Miss Hewter."

"Ah," he remonstrated, "that is not my affair."

I moved my chair a little closer to him.

"You were the person who planned her abduction. I reminded him. "I rather think that, since you are here and not at my invitation, it will become very necessary for you to tell me, unless you want to be choked where you sit."

He waved me away. I will do him the credit to acknowledge that he did not look the least afraid.

"It is true," he confessed, "that I was concerned in the abduction of Miss Hewter, but you see, Major, we both act under orders. I was acting under orders from my chief and you from yours. I had to obey. I am here and in your power. You can throttle me in an hour's time just as well as now. Supposing we let the matter drop while I disclose the reason for my visit.

"Well, get on with it," I conceded.

"I am an ambassador," Mr. Leopold confided. "To tell you the truth, that is rather where I come in. I am the bearer of a message from our friend.

"From Joseph?"

"Why mention names? He has tried half a dozen. The one that amuses him most is the pseudonym he adopted that night at Clacker's—Mr X. You can understand that, during the last month, he has not been too anxious for the name of Mr Ruben Sams to appear in the newspapers. Shall we call him Mr. X? He wants to see you."

"Not half as much as I want to see him," I rejoined. "What are you after—the free pardon myself?"

Leopold shook his head.

"I am treating you like complete Frankness, Major. I am an ambassador. Joseph wishes to see you."

"Then I wonder he isn't here," I observed. "He wanted to find his way in and out of my rooms at will."

"He finds his way in and out of anywhere rooms," Leopold declared calmly. "For the moment, however, it is his wish that you visit him. Mr X felt that Inspector Bloor might be spending the evening with you. Hence my visit. Mr Bloor knows a little too much. He was a long time coming to me. I moved rapidly enough now. We were waiting a stretched wire last night, Major. Bloor made the mistake of his life when he refused to listen to you. I doubt whether he will ever have another chance."

"Why not?" I demanded.

"Because we are masters," Leopold said calmly. "It is like the chief, though, when the end comes, to see it. We have run our course."

"So you have come for that reward of five thousand pounds, after all?"

My visitor looked at me as one might have looked at an ignorant child.

"The person who earns that five thousand pounds," he said, "will spend it in eternity or nowhere. When I say that we are masters, I mean that we must disband. Mr. X will leave this country when he chooses and how he chooses. He will live abroad when, where and how he pleases. Five thousand pounds, fifty thousand or half a million will never bring him independent prison.

"Bunk," I exclaimed contemptuously. "Joseph's day is over, and he knows it."

"Answer me this question, Major," Leopold begged. "Why are we occupying these rooms? Why did you begin combing the West End of London with Miss Hewter to keep you company?"

"To find Joseph," I told him, "and I found him."

"And lost Miss Hewter. Never mind that, though. You admit that your object was to find Joseph. Can you lay your hands upon him at this present moment? Very well, I am here to take you to him."

"Thank you," I replied. "I am waiting until I can go with a police warrant and the warrant, and I don't fancy it will be long."

"On the contrary," Leopold assured me, "I think if you do not accept my offer, you and Joseph may never meet in this world.

I was beginning to get interested. There might be some definite purpose, after all, in this strange visit.

"Let's get on with this," I suggested. "Put your proposals into plain words before I decide what to do."

Mr. X wants to see you," Leopold announced. "I am to offer you a safe conduct."

"And your guarantee?"

"Mr. X's word—and the young lady."

"Miss Hewter? I exclaimed.

He inclined his head gravely.

"Since Miss Hewter disappeared on the Blue Susan," he said, "the young lady has remained under the protection of my chief. If it is your wish and she is willing, Mr. X. Joseph will give you the opportunity. I am to take you to Joseph and he will make certain propositions to you. If you fail to come to terms there is no harm done. Your personal safety is guaranteed."

"By you?"

He tapped a cigarette upon the table and lit it.

"You have always misunderstood my chief," he declared. "When the tocsin sounds and the fight is on, he fights—he fights like no other man on earth. When the battle can be won by wits, he is one of the large persons to introduce the wrong note.

"What about poor Rachel?"

Leopold wagged his head mournfully.

"You speak of other things," he protested. "She was on her way to betray her master. For what other reason did she come to your flat? You know. She was obsessed with jealousy. She came to play the informer. Entirely through her Joseph was compelled to leave his old headquarters in the East End and blow them up. She was punished according to the law of the Woires. If Joseph had said the word, you would have found a dagger in her heart."

"Well," I announced. I'm ready. How do we go?"

"I have a car waiting. We will drive to the house where Joseph is living. You can decide to become it. You will certainly be able to find a certain without difficulty. All that is demanded of you is that, if you decide that you come to terms with my chief, for twelve hours after your return you keep silent."

"Just my word?" I asked incredulously.

"Just your word. Joseph has the courage to trust. You are going to be brought face to face with the man for whom you have searched night and day, and you will leave him when your conversation is finished as though you were an ordinary caller, but, if you should break your parole, you will be lying upon your back before tomorrow night and the stars might wink down at you, but you would not wink back. No threat, you understand," he went on, "no threat at all. It just happens. It has happened to one or two. If my chief's judgment is right, it won't happen to you. There are men who keep their word as naturally as they breathe. Joseph thinks you are one. If so, you are safe. If he is making a mistake, he may suffer for it, but so will you."

I put on my hat and coat, assisted my guest into his, and descended to the street. We drove off, and I took note of our passage through the familiar thoroughfares.

The streets were emptying as we turned up Baker Street, past Grove Road and Lord's Cricket Ground, through Hampstead, Golder's Green and Finchley and, increased our speed as we came to the open country beyond. When we turned off the main road, about half way to Hatfield I asked Leopold a question

"Much farther?"

"We are almost there," was the response. "You can see the lights among the trees"

We turned in through broad gates between twin lodges, drove for a mile along a well-kept, curving avenue and crossed a park studded with magnificent trees. Always in front of us the lights were twinkling from a large Georgian mansion.

"You are paying a visit," Leopold confided, "to Sir Bruce Pettefar."

"The deuce!" I exclaimed. "Is Joseph going in for titles?"

"All that you need to have in mind for the moment is that you are paying a visit to Sir Bruce Pettefar," Mr Leopold replied coldly. "We have finished, if you please, with all references to Joseph, Ruben Sams, and such matters. Sir Bruce is an invalid who has lived here for many years. I have recently become his secretary."

A very handsome and well-kept estate, so far as one could judge in the moonlight. A butler admitted us and welcomed Leopold as though he were one of the household.

We crossed a large, old-fashioned hall, and the butler knocked upon the door of one of the front rooms.

A languid voice bade us enter.

"The gentleman you were expecting, Sir Bruce," he announced, and left us.

FIRE INSURANCE SUIT DISMISSED

Judge Gives Verdict for Companies Because Plaintiff Had "Insured Double"

VANCOUVER, B.C., July 8.—Following trial in Supreme Court, Chief Justice Martin this afternoon on action of Murdo Macdonald, logger of Duncan, who claimed $1,000 from the Security Insurance Company, and $700 from the Globe and Rutgers Fire Insurance Co., on two policies which insured plaintiff's house and contents at Davis Lake against loss from fire.

During the owner's absence, fire on August 23 last destroyed the house and furnishings, which Macdonald valued at $2,500.

Payment of the insurance money was refused on the ground that the plaintiff had failed to disclose to yet to break ".

the respective companies that he had insurance with each.

"This is clearly a case of double insurance, known to be such by the plaintiff and which was not disclosed by him to the defendants,' said His Lordship. "The circumstances under which the report was made to the surgeon of police do not reach far enough to help the plaintiff."

Macdonald, after the fire, informed the officer of the two insurance policies.

"The report appears to be a stereotyped form, and had the information therein been disclosed to the defendants at the material time they would not have insured the plaintiff for the amount claimed," stated the Chief Justice. "The action is dismissed."

The village fire department was still on the job. "Why don't you stop? yelled the angry house owner. "The fire is all out."

"I know it," replied the fire captain, "but there's three windows

GIANTS CONTINUE ON LEADERS' HEELS IN NATIONAL

Local Track Stars Will Run in Vancouver Meet

G. Aldous, Skillings, Fell and Miss Beverley Valo to Compete Under "Y" Colors—Percy Williams Will Be Big Attraction

Victoria will be represented at the Midsummer Carnival and grand amateur athletic meet under the auspices of the Y.M.C.A. in Lansdowne Association of Fifteen & Electric Railway Employees, to be held in Vancouver next Friday and Saturday, according to information received from Archie McKinnon, physical director at the Y.M.C.A. Three men and one girl will cross the water to compete in the various events under the colors of the "Y." George Aldous will run in the half-mile race, and Frank Skillings, one of McKinnon's best bets, will compete in the 220-yard sprint. Arthur Thornton Fell, Victoria's premier field star, has entered in the hammer and broad jumps.

Miss Beverley Valo, sixteen-year-old schoolgirl, and the daughter of Derek Valo, is an outstanding track and field star, all show her warm in the events. Miss Valo's entries are the fifty and 100-yard sprints for ladies. Miss Valo, although early in her teens, is a comer, and is looked upon to hold her own against the Mainland's best. Last year at the police sports, she captured both the fifty-yard and cinders events with plenty to spare.

Archie McKinnon will accompany the representatives, and while there will have his eye open for some data that will assist him in training the "Y" track and field squad.

WILLIAMS TO RUN

Percy Williams, world's champion sprint star, and Cuinde Bracey, locally six-foot sprinter from Texas and the latest acquisition to the wonder field of sprinters, will oppose one another in the 100-yard dash in the feature race of the programme. Bracey has beaten George Simpson, the Ohio flash, who created a new world's record recently, six times out of seven times the two have faced the starter. He is coached by Dan Kelly, the famous Flinn

Percy Williams

Miss Ethel Catherwood, Canada's female marvel, will be among the entries who will start in varsity field star, all show her warm in the events.

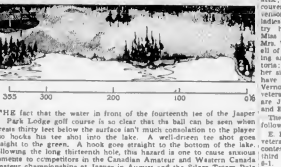
HASENFRATZ WINS COLONIST TROPHY AT COLWOOD TRAPS

Registering a possible 25, H. Hasenfratz, local trap-shooting expert, won The Colonist Cup at the Colwood traps Sunday, at the regular monthly meet of the Victoria Gun Club. Hasenfratz also won the Dominion Cartridge Company Trophy which was an English setter dog modeled in bronze.

The Lonsdale Cup was won by L. Horth, after a shoot-off with R. Hasenfratz.

The Sporty 14th at Jasper

No. 14, Lac Beauvert—355 yards, Par 4.



THE fact that the water in front of the fourteenth tee of the Jasper Park Lodge golf course is so clear that the ball can be seen when it rests thirty feet below the surface isn't much consolation to the player who hooks his tee shot into the lake. A well-driven tee shot goes straight to the green. A hook goes straight to the bottom of the lake. Following the long thirteenth hole, this hazard is one to cause anxious moments to competitors in the Canadian Amateur and Western Canada Amateur championships at Jasper in August and the Silver Totem Pole tournament in September. The upper photograph shows the tee and the plan below, the hole in detail.

Golf's Vital Plays as Told by Masters

Nothing so essential for fine putting as body ease, Henry Cotton says. Worms not to mind if your stance is unorthodox if it suits you.

By HENRY COTTON

Writing Exclusively for The Colonist and the North American Newspaper Alliance (Copyright, 1929, by the North American Newspaper Alliance)

My theory of putting is that the paramount point is body ease. You can't putt well unless you are in a comfortable position, without the least suggestion of tenseness or strain.

The distribution of weight on the feet, the position of the wrists and the smoothness of the strokes are not as essential as ease.

Leo Diegel has a peculiar stance for putting, with his elbows sticking out at opposite points of the compass, yet Leo putts very well.

Unless your body is at ease you'll tighten your grip on the shaft and fail to get your sort of line. You'll miss the easiest putts. But once you have found the position which suits you best you are sure to improve.

Don't mind if your friends tell you your stance isn't orthodox. Any one that is easy, and don't mind whether or not you make a living picture.

The best putters I have seen are Bobby Jones, Walter Hagen, Johnny Farrell and Macdonald Smith. This, I suppose, is the opinion of those golfers who have been quizzed for this series, but you simply can't get back of the results.

At Skokie Jones probably gave us the finest exhibition of putting as was ever seen. He missed nothing between inches and seven or eight feet which any golfer will tell you are the toughest distances. That same year in the North-South Open at Pinehurst, Walter Hagen had eleven one-putt greens, and he couldn't miss the easiest putts. At any rate, he didn't fumble anything under ten feet.

Grantland Rice tells of a round he played with Jerry Travers some years ago. Travers was one of the greatest putters who ever lived, you know. On the outgoing nine his putting was terrible, and he took a 43. Coming back he seemed inspired. His game was about the same from tee to green, but he holed four putts of thirty feet each, two of eighteen and another of twelve. He just couldn't seem to miss anything.

Golf is like that and putting is the finer an illustration of its vagaries as anything you can pick out. But there is one thing sure, you can't be a good golfer—a really good one—unless you are also a very good putter.

Jinx to Wed During the Ball Season

By AL DEMAREE
(Former Pitcher New York Giants)

This year will be memorable for one thing, if nothing else. It appears to be the year of ball players who will tie the knot, the kind of knot, get married during the season.

Babe Ruth has had all kinds of hard luck since he got married, and Charley Hartnett, of the Cubs, may have lost a pennant race. Jinx has arrived in the Hartnett home.

Babe Mangrum never seemed to be able to stand a chance after marriage.

It is an old belief among ball players that it is the worst kind of a jinx to do the wedding march during the ball season.

I remember the year Erskine Mayer, of the old Phillies, got married. He and I were splitting our business. He got his the year before, and then he got married and had a poor season. I won my bonus of $500 but when I went to President Baker to get the money, he said "I don't mind paying you this bonus. M. but I'd like to give it to you only on one condition—that you don't split it with Mayer. He broke his promise to me about getting married, and you know that's the worst jinx that can possibly come to a ball player."

I don't know whether that's true or not, but sometimes it looks like it.

Mayer Mills varies.

Canadians Entered In New York Tennis

SYRACUSE N.Y. July 8.—Walter Martin, of Regina, today defeated Ken Fisher, of New York, 6-2, 6-0, in the first round of the New York State tennis championship tournament.

Jack Ham, of Toronto, ranking No. 4 player, and Gilbert Nunns, of Montreal, were ranked No. 8 in the Dominion last year, are also entrants. Dr. Ham is among the seeded players.

Fraser Mills Win From Toronto Osiers

VANCOUVER, July 8.—Fraser Mills, champion baseball nine of British Columbia, routed Osiers of Toronto here tonight, 11-1. The tourists called on four hurlers but the champions hammered out 16 hits. Osiers covered 4 hits off Dalton, Fraser Mills twirler.

TWO VICTORIA VETS LOSE AT KELOWNA MEET

J. G. Brown and E. S. Brown Go Down in Men's Singles at Interior Championships

VICTORIA DOUBLES TEAM WINS EASILY

(Special to The Colonist)

KELOWNA, July 8.—Two leading Interior lawn tennis championships commenced here this afternoon with a slightly smaller entry than last year, but this will probably be offset by the class of entries.

Among those from outside points are Lange and Nordstrom, of Seattle; Ryan and Shields, of Vancouver; Atwood, Grant, Porter, Stevenson, North Vancouver. In the doubles competition a strong entry has been received, including Miss Helen Fletcher, Miss Allison Mrs. W. R. Ross and Mrs. J. Muir, of Vancouver, Miss Rose Cameron and Miss Viola Rishet, of Victoria, Miss Bishop, Miss Dalton and her sister, Mrs F Sparling, Entries have been received from Penticton Vernon and outlying places. In the veterans' class, the outstanding entries are J. C. Nicholson, of Vancouver, and E. S and J. G. Brown, Victoria.

The results of the matches are as follows:

E. Hill, of Kelowna, defeated the veteran J. G. Brown in a keenly contested match, but only after a fine shave, the score being 5-2, 3-0, 4-1.

E. S Brown, of Victoria, was also defeated by Adams, the president of the Kelowna club, in a hard fought battle which ended 6-3, 4-5, 6-4. Cardinal Brown became the victim of rally in keeping the balls in court on account, he said, of high bounce caused by the warm weather.

LOCAL FAIR AVERAGES

Miss Hope Leeming and Miss Yelds Rishet won their first indoor doubles match against two Kelowna ladies, Misses Griffith and Rowcliffe, 6-1, 5-1, and in the day they Miss Leeming defeated Miss Griffith, 6-0, 3-1.

Lloyd and Nordstrom, Seattle, defeated Grant and Atwood, 6-0, 4-6. Nicholson, the veteran, disposed of his opponent, Mr Stevenson, 6-1, 3-6, 6-2. Atwood, of Grand Forks, defeated Dehart, of Kelowna, 6-0, 6-1. Mrs Ross and Mrs. Muir, of Vancouver, went into the third round by defeating Mrs. Whitmore and Miss Turner, 6-1, 6-3.

The weather is ideal for tennis with no wind, and it is expected that the match scheduled for tomorrow will be more evenly contended. There is a strong entry in the mixed doubles, the draw for which has been delayed because of a number of expected entries dropping out.

LANGFORD WINS FROM J.B.A.A.

Tennis Match at Cooper Quarters Ends in Narrow Margin of Win for Visitors

Playing under perfect weather conditions and within a setting reminiscent on The Hurlingham, so far as the general layout of tennis courts is concerned, the J.B.A.A. of Victoria, defeated the Langford team at Langford. The lawn tennis courts of the air conditioned courts presented a picture never before seen in the gallery followed the games and so keen was the competition that until the final set was played the result was in doubt.

The team from the "Gateway to the Malahat" went home victorious, winning six out of the nine. Two tiered and sixteen games in all were played, 111 going to Langford and 105 to the losers.

Refreshments were served in the cosy tea rooms of the club, the arrangements being in charge of the Bayer hard working Assistant Secretary Porter, who was ably assisted by Mrs Pearsarge

Langford Tennis Club will be the hosts of the players from the Gorge on the courts of the Langford club next week-end.

Results with the Langford players first named, follow

LADIES DOUBLES

Mrs. Rayne and Mrs. Sparks won from Miss Ditchburn and Miss Ross, 6-2, 6-4.

Mrs. Sparks and Miss Spencer lost to Miss Ditchburn and Mrs. Thomas, 6-2, 6-3.

MEN'S DOUBLES

Brown and LeQuesne won from Temple and Sheck, 6-3, 3-6, 6-4.

RUTH'S AVERAGE TAKES BIG JUMP

Bambino Now In Third Place In Big Six—Paul Waner Also Registers Gain

Babe Ruth and Paul Waner were the only members of the Big Six who profited by yesterday's games. Each went to bat five times and got three hits for remarkable gains in their batting average. The Babe's mark went up six points to .351 Waner's five-point gain put him in fourth place at .357, displacing Cuyler who went hitless and lost ground. Hornsby gained a single point with one hit in two official times at bat, while Frisch had his own with one in three.

Frisch also went hitless, dropping three points of his lead.

JOKERS DEFEAT SONS OF CANADA

Chalk Up 11-2 Victory in Senior Amateur Baseball League Fixture at Royal Athletic Park

CANADIANS OUSTED FROM SECOND BERTH

OKERS climbed into the second place in the Senior Amateur Baseball League race last night, when they thoroughly trounced the Sons of Canada, 11 to 2, at the Royal Athletic Park The Canadians dropped to third place, the game in front of Sidney from now on it will be a merry race as each of the clubs fight for the right to enter the play-offs, which will include the top three teams

The standing of the teams, including last night's game follows:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Tillicums	5	2	.833
Jokers	4	1	.556
Sons of Canada	4	4	.500
Sidney	2	4	.429
Eagles	1	3	.375

FOUR WITHOUT A HIT

From the first inning the Sons started in to boot the eight errors and the Jokers and in four runners without a hit. Fireworks commenced in this session when Bacon, the Canadian's catcher, took exception to a couple of calls by Moore, and appeared as if he would like to settle the argument by a fistic duel. Emery took a flying dive at Moore's feet and as the jaker went to the ground, players swarmed around the umpire like a bunch of bees. However, McGregor went to the scene of battle and the ball game broke it was, continued.

Jokers scored twice again in the second, once in the fifth and four times in the seventh.

Ray Parfitt, who worked on the slab for the Sons, was picked for seven hits, and Shaw, coupled with no less than nine bobbles by his teammates, gave the Jokers eleven runs.

The Canadians scored one run in the first and another in the seventh

Dan Lidstone, who made his debut on the mound for the Jokers, heaved good ball and held the Sons to eight scattered hits, while he whiffed seven.

The inability of the losers to hit in the pinches spoiled their few chances of giving the Jokers a fight

Elmer Smith, right fielder for the Jokers, led the willow-swishing parade with three hits, including two doubles, out of five trips to the plate

ROUTLS LOSES TO YOUNGSTER

Featherweight Champion Drops Decision, but Best Turns Out to Be Non-Title Affair

BOSTON, July 8.—Young Jake Zeramby, of Lynn, lambasted Andre Routis, featherweight champion, tonight in the Boston Garden's feature ten-round bout, a nontitle affair because the victor scaled over weight.

The youngster fighting his first important bout, stopped most of the champion's jabs and sent the boxing him to the punch, with staggering jokes to the head. Routis won only two of the rounds

Loughran Says Training Different From Old Days

Light Heavyweight Champ Compares Methods of Preparing for Fight With Years Ago—Dempsey Trains Wrong and Tunney Right

By TOMMY LOUGHRAN
Light-Heavyweight Champion of the World (Courtesy, 1928, by the North American Newspaper Alliance)

HOOSICK FALLS, N.Y., July 8.—Everyone has different ideas about training. In the old days of bare knuckle fighting, when stamina counted most and skill and speed were negligible, the boys did enormous amounts of road work. Sometimes they ran twenty miles a day and stacked up afterward with lots of red meat.

Then, was a reason—they stood up to each other, chest to chest. Footwork was unknown. They just hit away without much attention to blocking, and the fellow who could take most without wilting, was the winner.

In these days the whole plan has changed. For instance, here I am at Hoosick Falls, getting ready for my fight with James J. Braddock. In readying myself for that test, I have several things in mind.

TRAINING METHODS

First, I have to get down to 175 pounds without weakening myself. Slapping fifteen rounds against a fellow like Braddock will demand the utmost stamina I can't afford to be easy with a chap like that. But by hit I have to pare off the pounds without dropping any vitality with them. That is a job in itself, as I have found in the past.

Then I need to keep my speed and boxing skill at proper edge and do enough work in the ring and with the bags to get myself keen, but not too keen. I don't go in for the excessive road work the eld-timers did, and I keep away from the large quantities of red meat and sac they used to swallow.

I recognize the value of road work as much as anyone, but I think the amount must be adjusted to each man's temperament. Four miles a day are enough for me. I've learned that through the experience of ten years, and if Jim Braddock should choose to do three times as much, that would not influence me to change my programme.

I have strong and capable sparring partners. It must be admitted that the life of a sparring partner is not an ideal one, but my co-workers are not punished any more than necessary. This is true of the sparring partners who work with boxers rather than sluggers.

Jack Dempsey simply didn't know how to spare his mates. When they were through a training session with him, they were pretty well washed up. Gene Tunney, on the other hand, used his boxing sessions to practise certain definite things. It didn't matter to him that they might land punches on him and that he might lock bad to the observers. He was conducting a problem I do that myself, and in the course of the boxing, my sparring partners are not unduly hurt.

The more I see of this section of the country the more I am delighted with it. It is the ideal spot for training, and I am certain I will be in perfect shape when I answer the bell on July 18.

CHAMPIONSHIP SERIES WILL OPEN TONIGHT

Oaklands and South Park Lacrosse Teams Will Cross Sticks at Royal Athletic Park at 6:30

STRONG SQUADS AWAITING WHISTLE

Followers of the gutted-stick game are promised an interesting battle at the Royal Athletic Park tonight, when South Park and Oaklands throw sticks at 6:30 o'clock in the first game of the series for the city championship and the right to meet the Mainland winners.

The series promises to be a real "old bit" and will undoubtedly produce some of the best lacrosse seen here for many a day. Each of the teams is carrying the pick of local players, with youth, speed and experience in their favor.

In previous battles the results have been split with one win apiece. South Park will line up as follows: Goal, Bradley; point, Claud Bisset; cover point, Bob Shervet; 1st defence, Jenks; 2nd defence, Les Bryant; 3rd defence, Darrel Bisset; centre, Hardy; 3rd home, Gil Marguson; 2nd home, Clark; 1st home, Bill Plater; out home, Lloyd Cann; and in home, Eric Smart.

GOLDSTEIN BEATEN

PITTSBURGH, July 8.—Tony Herrera, Chicago, won a decision here tonight in ten rounds over Phil Goldstein, Pittsburgh. The Chicago boy weighed 123½ and Goldstein 122¾.

EXTRACTS FROM VICKERS' DIARY—1752
It is a sincere tribute to the many virtues of Vickers' London Dry Gin that the "fashionable" of our town are no less appreciative of its rare and distinctive qualities.
The carrier did bring a further interesting letter from Brother John describing a vogue now in great favour, of serving as an appetizer worthy Vickers' Gin mixed with aromatic bitters and a cordial called vermouth. A gentleman from the Americas, delighted with the concoction, hath returned to his country with the recipe.

DUNDEE DEFEATS EDDIE MARTIN

Former Featherweight Champion Wins Decision Over "Cannonball" Easily

NEW YORK, July 8.—Johnny Dundee, former featherweight champion, won the decision over Cannonball Eddie Martin, former bantamweight king, in a ten-round bout at Dexter Park Brooklyn, tonight.

Dundee outpointed Martin by a wide margin all the way. The former bantamweight champion's rushing tactics got him nowhere in the face of Dundee's clever boxing. Dundee weighed 128 1-2; Martin, 128 1-2.

EDDIE GERARD TO LEAVE MAROONS

OTTAWA, July 8.—Eddie Gerard, manager of the Montreal Maroons hockey club, declared today he would not be with the big Red team this year. He announced definitely that he is resigning. He refused to discuss the possibility of his being connected with the Ottawa team but said that he would be in the game in some capacity next season.

Bobby Jones at Head Of Golf Medal Derby

Atlanta Wizard's Brilliant Golf of Late Puts Him Ahead of Horton Smith—Latter Has Played 91 Rounds

Playing in his first tournament of the year Bobby Jones rightfully took his place at the top of the seasonal medal averages by shooting an average of 72.1-2 strokes to the round in six rounds of National Open play.

His edge over Horton Smith, however, is infinitesimal. Horton has played ninety-one tournament rounds and seems on the way to set a new record for the number of tournament rounds played in a single season.

Nearly all National Open competitors slipped a bit in their scoring. A week ago twenty-two men were averaging better than seventy-four strokes to the round. Now there are only twelve.

The averages.

Two Marksmen Miss Target Entirely With All Their Shots in the B.S.A. Match

LIEUTENANT BURKE LEADS CANADIANS

BISLEY CAMP, England, July 8.—The opening day of the National Rifle Association's great Empire shooting meet today was very light so far as the programme events were concerned, but it at least demonstrated that Lieut. Desmond Burke, of Ottawa, former runner of the King's prize, a shooting in fine form again.

Lieut. Burke and Lieut. W. Houlden, of Sherbrooke, Que. were the only Canadian shooters in the Queen Mary's prize rifle shoot under "severe conditions," the chief event today. Lieut. Burke scored a total of 166 out of a possible 188 while Lieut. Houlden amassed 138 points. Burke's total was creditable in view of the peculiar conditions of the match and poor shooting conditions, a tricky wind making for low scores all day. It was so tricky that two marksmen missed the target entirely with all shots over the 600 yard range.

The match called for deliberate firing at 600 yards, fire with movement from 600 to 1,000 yards, rapid fire at 300 yards and snap shooting at 300 yards—ten shots at each distance. The Ottawa man's scores were respectively 43, 42, 38 and 43. Lieut. Houlden scored 34, 33, 36 and 30.

The only other event of any interest on the opening day was the service rifle shoot, the "B.B.A." competition, in which seven shots were fired at 800 yards. Lieut. Burke and Lieut. Houlden tied for eight Canadians competing with scores of 29 out of 35, but Houlden's shots were better placed than Burke's. At that, Lieut. Houlden only placed sixty-seventh to win Sergeant Alexander Wilson, of the Royal Hamilton Light Infantry, was next with 28. Sergt. J. W. Sharp, Montreal, had 27; Company Sergeant-Major Lewis, Toronto, 26. Corp. J. H. Davidson, Ottawa, 32. Private C. T. M. Morton, Hamilton, 22, and Sergt. J. Rusk, Ottawa, 20.

Wright to Try For Diamond Sculls Again

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, England, July 8.—The historic Diamond Sculls, emblematic of the world's amateur single sculls championship, passed from Canada to Holland on Saturday when L. Guichter defeated Joe Wright, Jr., of Toronto, the holder. Wright lost by an error of judgment, starting his final burst just too late to overhaul the Dutchman. Guichter won by a yard in eight minutes and forty-two seconds.

"I held my last effort a little too late. I intend to come over next year and try to win the Diamond Sculls for Canada again."

HUNDRED INJURED IN PANIC AT GAME

DETROIT, July 8.—One hundred and three persons, mainly negroes were injured four seriously, in a panic that followed a fire under the grain grandstand at Mack Park, semi-pro baseball field, here shortly before 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

HOCKING REACHES QUARTER-FINALS

Local Tennis Ace Advances in Pacific Northwest Sectional Singles Meet at Portland

PORTLAND, July 8.—Jack Rhine, Portland net star, playing under the colors of the Multnomah Club, and Ross "Bud" Hocking, of Victoria, B.C., advanced to quarter-finals of the men's Pacific Northwest sectional singles championship on the Multnomah Club courts here today.

Rhine defeated Don McClarren, of Seattle, 6-2, 6-2, 7-5, and Hocking eliminated Walter A. Cone, 4-6, 7-5, 6-4.

Two seeded players fell by the wayside in the day's play. Paul Bleffen, No. 8 seeded, defeated by P. P. Griffin; and Worth Oswald, No. 6 and captain of the Whitman team, ran into Laurason Driscol, of Blanford, and was defeated 6-2, 9-11, 6-2.

Tommy Gorman to Retire as Pilot Of N.Y. Americans

OTTAWA, July 8.—T. N. Gorman, manager and coach of the New York American hockey team and secretary of the Connaught Park Jockey Club, of that city, confirmed reports appearing in New York papers that he had been appointed assistant general manager of the Agua Caliente race track in Mexico. The appointment means that he will retire as manager and coach of the New York Americans. It will not, however, affect his position with the Connaught Park Club. Mr. Gorman takes over his new position on October 1.

MARTIN AND HAM HAVE EASY WINS IN EASTERN MEET

SYRACUSE, N.Y., July 8.—Easy victories were won by Dr. Art Ham, Toronto, and Walter Martin, Reguna, in the first round of the New York State tennis championships today. Ham beat Gene McCabe, Los Angeles, and Martin won his way into the second round by eliminating Vaughn Little, New York, the scores in both matches were 6-2, 6-0.

BULLS MAKE EFFORT BUT PUBLIC SHY

Advance Operations Resumed With Enthusiasm, but Profit-Taking Persists and Public Stays Out

RAILWAY ISSUES IN CHIEF FAVOR

NEW YORK, July 8—Bullish operations were resumed with enthusiasm at the beginning of the new week on the Stock Exchange today, but the profit taking which cropped out later last week persisted as call money again turned upward, reaching 5 per cent, and little public following was attracted. Total sales for the session fell off to 3,522,160 shares.

Rails enjoyed especial favor, Wheeling & Lake Erie common, which occupies a strategic position in the Eastern merger plans, rising 28 points to 99 in a few sales, the highest price since 1927. Pere Marquette jumped 15 points to a new peak at 200, and Allegheny Corporation preferred, Nickel Plate, New York Central, Norfolk & Western and Union Pacific were sent to new peaks.

U.S. Steel rose more than 5 points to a record price at 200 at 200 3-4, and several independent steels, Allied Chemical, American Locomotive, American Bank Note, Pennick & Ford and Snider Packing preferred were among other issues reaching new high ground. American Sugar rose 5 points.

General Electric ran into rather heavy realizing, falling back 10 points from the top, and closing off about 3 points net.

Auburn Auto, which has also had a spectacular rise, slid back about 14 points, rallying a little at the close. Eastman Kodak, Calumet & Arizona, Columbia Carbon and Nickel Plate were among issues losing about 2 to 4 points.

Foreign exchanges were firm, influenced by a rise of 1-4c in sterling cables carrying the rate to $4.85 1-4.

Bonds in the general list maintained a steady trend until the last hour when a tendency to easiness developed, especially in the rails. Speculation was of moderate proportions, however, and most of the turnover took place in the rails.

WHEAT MARKET EASIER EARLY

GENERAL SELLING AT CHICAGO CARRIES PRICES OFF CONSIDERABLY

Crop Reports From American Northwest Continue Pessimistic—Rain Urgently Needed

(B.C. Bond Corporation, Ltd.)

CHICAGO, July 8.—The wheat market was easier early, with general selling carrying prices off nearly two cents from the previous close. But good support developed on the break and later when Winnipeg turned 2½c higher, there was a scramble to buy wheat here and prices advanced nearly 3 cents from the inside figure. Beneficial rains fell in parts of Canada with several points reporting more than one inch but in a majority of instances the moisture was relatively light.

Crop reports from American northwest were again pessimistic. Rain is needed, which is usually conservative, said.

Generally heavy rains fell in Saskatchewan crop practically ruined, and in Alberta rains would help, but condition is very grave. Heavy rains in parts of Kansas will delay harvest but movement is expected to be heavy. Export demand slow at the seaboard, ½ to ¾ lower. We have no market on wheat.

Corn market was early but advanced to above the previous close when wheat turned strong. There was also some buying in official circles which, which estimated crop at 232,000,000 bushels, against 306,000,000 a year ago. We favor the purchase of corn as well as rye.

Whitney Letter

(Branson, Brown & Co., Ltd.)

NEW YORK, July 8.—Whitney of the Wall Street Financial Service, today says:

The market disregard by today's session of the 9 per cent call rate is significant in two ways. First, that the call rate is merely regarded as a temporary adjustment to the heavy calling of loans in preparation for the midmonth statements, and second, that the current adjustment is taking place for the down trend which has been established during the last three or four months. The minor setback toward the opening of today's session took on the character that you would expected, and likewise that any number of issues would not follow it down at all. With the market now indicating that it is yet a long way from the point where it is safe on rallies and that for some time to come is still a buy on reactions we can simply direct our attention to the individual issues which are capable of giving us profits from here on.

With steel now established in the 200's there is nothing to do but to hold all stocks acquired on the series of recommendations which has appeared here for some time past, until our objective of well over 225 is achieved, and continue to use every reaction, especially if you have one today which carries it just under 200 to buy it. Continue to buy Corn Products under 110 for an objective of 125-130. American & Foreign Power between 115 and 120 for an objective of 150-160. Pullman under 80 for well over 100. Ludlum Steel under 110 for 15 to 20 points above that level as well as Fleischmann, Continental Baking "A", Kennecott and Anaconda around current prices. At this time wish to direct attention to American Radiator Sanitary particularly while it is available in the range between 256-263 per share. This company will be the medium of an extensive combine being engineered by the Morgan interests in the building supply business, and I expect present quotations for the stock to be doubled before arrangements are completed. Likewise direct attention to Sullivan which led the field in the matter of unsolicited fresh companies and which has a long way to go before its company earnings prospectus. But it under 80 for a price of at least 100.

If you acted on the recommendations in Anaconda you have already bought Norfolk & Western under 200, take your profits around present prices of 206 and put the funds into Western Union which is selling up several points yesterday has still 25 or 30 points to go. On the curb Finney Bowes is still cheap at present. As it is a big buy place under 155. Insurance shares, I believe, continues to represent the outstanding value on the curb, so buy it before you have to reach an uncomfortable number of points for it later on.

STOCKS HIGHER AT THE OPENING

Realizing Sales Halt Upward Trend At New York—Prime Movements Irregular

(Branson, Brown & Co., Ltd.)

NEW YORK, July 8.—The general run of stocks were a little higher at the opening of today's session. However before the end of the initial hour realizing sales made their appearance, which served to halt the upward trend and resulted in irregular price movements throughout the entire list. Some of the issues that featured the early rallying on the advance side of prices were the farm implement and mail order shares. The recent betterment which has taken place in the wheat situation probably accounts for some of the increased activity shown in the latter group. Corn Products was another stock that was in strong demand at the outset on reports of better earnings and merger talk, while Bruce Body continued to move upward and reached a new high price for the current move.

Active accumulation of Underwood-Elliott-Fisher marked the price of the stock to a new high level for all time. Earnings of Underwood are running at a rate somewhat in excess of last year, and the outlook for the balance of the current year is said to be excellent. The steel shares, as a group, were the outstanding features of the session, led by the premier issues nearly all stocks in this group showing moderately higher. Higher reports emanating from the various steel centres continue of a very satisfactory nature. Activities in the Youngstown district especially are maintaining at an exceptionally good pace for this reason of the year. Oil shares were somewhat better today. In fact, the action of the petroleum group was the best in a long while. Further discussions with regard to a conservative programme in the Kettleman Hills districts and the prospects of improvement in the oil industry in the State of California, helped to stimulate a better feeling toward the petroleum stocks. Call money renewed at 7 per cent and showed better tone, closing firmly after the noon hour to 9 per cent.

Money and exchange in the stock market were somewhat disappointing today. Sterling opened at the record metal continues moderate, both here and abroad. It is said that ultimate consumers have not entered the market on a large scale as yet, and this probably accounts for some of the backwardness displayed by the red metal issues. Platinum is the only metal quotation which were witnessed during today's session, are likely to result in some further irregularity. However, we incline toward a constructive attitude. Would buy on reactions.

Advertising—creates a desire personal contact completes the sale.

Advertising is only a part of selling.

There are those who maintain that advertising never actually sells a commodity; that the sale is always ultimately made through personal contact. This is undoubtedly true in a large number of cases but it does not mean that advertising does not play an important part in the selling process.

Selling consists of much more than the final exchange of the article for a piece of paper. Selling is merely the completion of the sale, and almost always is performed through personal contact. But before a person enters a store he often has his mind made up to buy a particular product as a result of advertising. Advertising thus plays its part in selling by preparing the buyer, refining sales resistance and actually creating a definite desire for a certain commodity.

But the complete selling process includes all steps from zero knowledge of and desire for the product, to actual purchase and possession of it. The function of advertising as a part in this process may be only to make known the bare name of the product, or it may be the creation of a desire so strong that the buyer goes to a store and asks for it.

OIL ISSUES LOSE GROUND; MINES QUIET

Volume of Trade on Vancouver Market Greatly Diminished as Compared With Recent Sessions

HOME OIL LOSES ONE DOLLAR NET

VANCOUVER, July 8.—With the volume of trade greatly diminished from recent days, the stock market was soft today, the oil issues with one or two exceptions all losing ground. Mines were quiet with the price range narrow. Home Oil starting 30 cents lower, worked up to $24, and then fell away to close at the low of the day, $23.10, for a net loss of one dollar. Royalite held firm at $140. A. P. Con., the heaviest trader, held within a narrow range during the morning but fell away later, closing at $4.02, down 26 cents. Calmont lost 35 cents to $3.90, and Dalhousie a like amount to $4.00. Mayland was off 50 cents at $9.00. Illinois Alta held steady at 80 cents, while the balance of the list was off 5 cents to 25 cents.

In the mines, Pend Oreille moved up 5 cents to $5.70, and Reeves 7 cents to $1.82. George Copper was down 25 cents at $10.00. Big Missouri, Golconda and Kootenay King were one point stronger, while Grandview lost a point and Snowflake went back 3 cents to 40 cents.

RANGE WIDEST IN MANY WEEKS

OPENING WHEAT PRICES WEAK AT WINNIPEG — CLIMB BEFORE CLOSE

Poorest Crop Districts Receive Least Moisture—Coarse Grains Follow Latest Change in Wheat

(Branson, Brown & Co., Ltd.)

WINNIPEG, July 8.—Wheat had a range of from 6 1-2 to 5 1-2 cents today, the widest in many weeks. Opening prices were weak and the market declined 3 3-8 during the first period with heavy liquidation of long wheat going on and some stoploss selling in evidence. This was based on showers and rains that had fallen in Western Canada over the week-end, while some showers had also been received in Spring wheat states. On the break there was good buying in evidence, part of which was credited to seaboard and American interests and partly to locals, which resulted in a reaction of about 2 cents, the market holding steady around this level most of the day. During the last hour the weekly crop reports of the two railways were received and these were decidedly bullish, showing prospects far below average with crop generally making a small head on short straw. In scattered areas, farmers were reported to be plowing up wheat fields. These reports brought in new buying support while offerings became very small, the market turning strong and prices climbing from 3 cents to 2 1-2 over the close on Saturday. Rains in the West were general the past two days, but the precipitation was streaky, being heavy in some districts and quite light in others.

The poorest crop districts received the least moisture and, generally speaking, the rains were not sufficient. Weather in the Southwest was also unfavorable, heavy rains and hailstorms being reported over wide areas, causing considerable damage.

European crops also appear to be smaller than last year, according to Broomhall's weekly review. Export business was still slow but there was a better demand, so cash wheat locally and spreads on the lower grades were unchanged.

Coarse Grains—These markets all followed the latest change in wheat, but business volume was rather light with little export business. Offerings continue light and there is very little pressure in evidence.

Flax—Market again worked higher, closing 1 1-4 to 3 cents up. Trade light but there is very little coming out.

She was taking her terrier for a run in the park, and met her dearest enemy, who was wearing a wonderful new fur coat.

The little dog jumped up to greet the wearer, who cried "Down! Down!" in an angry voice.

"Forgive my pet, darling," said his owner. "I can't teach him not to chase cats."

Bond Issue Invited for Vancouver Crystal Pool

Victor W. Odlum & Company Announce Offering of $75,000 Mortgage Sinking Fund Bond Issue for Undertaking

Victor W. Odlum & Company yesterday announced the public offering of $75,000 first (closed) mortgage sinking fund bond issue of Vancouver Crystal Pool Limited. The Crystal Pool, which was opened Friday, is estimated to have cost in the neighborhood of $220,315, and has been financed by a $75,000 mortgage bond issue; 10,000 7 per cent preferred shares of $10 par value, and 200,000 common shares of $1.00 par value. The original issue will carry as bonus 100 shares common stock with each bond.

The bonds are part of a first mortgage limited to $75,000. They have first lien on the assets of the company, which include the property at corner of Beach Avenue and Nicola Street, consisting of 132 feet on Beach Avenue, extending on Nicola Street out on the sands of English Bay, including the riparian rights to a depth of approximately 500 feet; also the present building and any additions that may be subsequently built.

The earnings are estimated at $54,675, based on the results of similar undertakings elsewhere. Expenses are estimated to amount to $21,120, leaving $33,555 available for interest and retirement of the bonds.

The bonds are redeemable as a whole or in part on any interest payment date upon sixty days' notice at $103 and accrued interest during the first five years; $102 and accrued interest during the second five years; and $101 and accrued interest thereafter and until maturity.

The underwriters announce that preliminary offerings have been well received, and anticipate an active demand for the balance of the bonds available.

Truscon Steel orders received for steel building products in first half of 1929 totalled more than 33 per cent above 1928 period, according to Julius Kahn, president.

Hornblower & Weeks—We feel that the market is entitled to a technical correction. However, we would be on the alert for buying opportunities when they appear in the course of any technical reaction that may make its appearance.

J. S. Bache & Co.—We recognize the excellent business outlook for the third quarter is an incentive for the further exploitation of stocks during the Summer months, but we believe that readjustments for technical reasons could occur before the next phase of the market's advance develops aggressively.

Morrison & Townsend—A technical recession of fair-sized proportions seems due somewhere around this level. Sound policy should be, however, to pick up leading issues on any substantial dips.

MR. E. R. WOOD RETIRES

TORONTO, July 8.—Retirement of E. R. Wood, Toronto, from the presidency of the Dominion Securities Corporation, and of G. R. Morrow, as senior vice-president is officially announced. A. F. White, Toronto, vice-president of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, will succeed Mr. Wood.

LORD MONTAGU'S PASSENGER

The late Lord Montagu of Beaulieu, whose interest in motoring was of such notable service in developing what is now a great industry, was on one occasion driving the late King Edward down to Beaulieu Abbey in his car when he was held up on the toll bridge at Lymington. The tollman, who was a well-known character, refused to let the car pass until he had dealt with the traffic going in the opposite direction, which consisted of a governess cart drawn by a donkey. In vain did Lord Montagu appeal to him on the ground that he was in a hurry. The old man told him plainly that a motorist had lately run past without paying and that it was not going to happen again if he knew it.

"But this is His Majesty the King," urged Lord Montagu. "Ah!" said the old fellow. "I know that sort o' king." And so King Edward, greatly amused at the tollman's unbelief, had to wait until the donkey cart had been disposed of before he was allowed to proceed.—London Morning Post.

"Are you married yet or are you still tearing around with those chorus girls?"

TRADING SHOWS SMALL VOLUME

LITTLE INTEREST IN MINES OR OILS ON TORONTO EXCHANGE

Associated Is the Leader—Home Oil Trades Firmly, but Weakens for a Net Loss

(Stobie, Forlong & Co.)

TORONTO, July 8.—There was a lack of interest generally on the Toronto Standard Stock and Mining Exchange today, both mining and oil issues trading sluggishly with a general softer tone apparent. There was very little volume of trading to speak of in either issue, Associated leading in this respect. Associated, from a stronger opening at 4.96, slacked off during the session under heavy selling pressure to a low of 4.40, but recovered and firmed towards the close at 4.65. A.P.C. showed a net loss of 35 cents, closing at 3.90. Ajax traded within a narrow price range with last sale 1.88, 1 point up. Baltac was off 15 cents at 2.35. Dalhousie off 25 cents at 4.15. Eastcrest 25 at 2.20. Home Oil traded firmly around the 24.00 mark during the major part of the session, but weakened to close at 23.50, net loss of 60 cents. Mayland suffered a loss of 70 cents, closing at 9.30. In the mines, Big Missouri was fairly steady, holding firm during the major portion of the session at 1.55, but weakened to close at 1.51.

International Nickel, with very small volume, closed down 65 cents at 61.35.

Sudbury Basin was off 20 cents at the close to 9.00, although trading fairly steady around 9.20 until the last hour of the session.

Dated 10th June, 1929 Due 10th June, 1944

Principal and semi-annual interest payable at the option of the holders at the offices of the Royal Bank of Canada, in Vancouver or Victoria, B.C.

Redeemable as a whole or in part on any interest payment date upon sixty (60) days' notice, at 103 and accrued interest during the first five years; 102 and accrued interest during the second five years, and 101 and accrued interest thereafter and until maturity.

Coupon Bonds, in denomination of $500.00, registerable as to principal only.

TORONTO GENERAL TRUSTS CORPORATION, Vancouver—Trustees.

The following information has been furnished by Mr. E. J. Ryan, President of the Company:

SECURITY—These bonds, in the opinion of counsel, are to be a direct obligation of Vancouver Crystal Pool, Limited, specifically secured by a first closed mortgage on the Swimming Pool and other buildings erected on the corner of Beach Avenue and Nicola Street consisting of one hundred and thirty-two (132) feet on Beach Avenue, extending on Nicola Street out on the sands at English Bay, including the Riparian Rights to a depth of approximately five hundred (500) feet. The property is large enough to take care of an additional open air pool, promenade, etc., leaving almost one hundred and thirty-two feet by one hundred (132 x 100) feet available if required for the erection of an apartment house or hotel. The estimated total cost of the present work is $220,315.00. In this amount is included the cost of property and the Riparian Rights of $65,400.00.

ESTIMATED REVENUE—The estimated earnings, based on data furnished by similar undertakings elsewhere, and allowing for revenue from the pool only, amount to $54,675.00 per annum, while the estimated expenses amount to $21,120.00, leaving $33,555.00 available for interest and retirement of the bonds. The annual interest charge for the total amount is $5,250.00.

SINKING FUND—Beginning six (6) months after the commencement of operations, the Trust Deed requires that an amount be paid monthly to the Trustees, sufficient for the semi-annual interest requirements and for the retirement of the bonds either by purchase in the open market up to and including the call prices, or by call by lot at 103 and accrued interest during the first five years; 102 and accrued interest during the second five years, and 101 and accrued interest thereafter and to maturity.

INSURANCE—All usual forms of insurance are to be carried for the protection of the bondholders.

CAPITALIZATION—The Capitalization of the Company consists of:

200,000 Common Shares of $1.00 Par Value	$200,000.00
10,000 7% Preferred Shares of $10 Par Value	100,000.00
First Mortgage Bonds	75,000.00

DIRECTORS—The following are Directors of the Company: Edward J. Ryan, Wendell B. Farris, Walter F. Evans, Frederick O. Hodgson, John Boyd, Russell E. Barker.

LEGAL—All legal requirements have been attended to by Messrs. Farris, Farris, Stultz & Sloan for the Company, and by Messrs. Davis, Pugh, Davis, Hossie, Ralston & Lett (Vancouver) for the Bankers.

Bonds are offered when, as and if issued and received by us, and subject to approval of Counsel.

PRICE—100 and accrued interest, to yield 7%

The original issue will carry as bonus 100 shares Common Stock for each $500.00 Bond purchased.

SPECIAL MUSIC COURSE OPENED

Miss Mabel Rich, of Montreal, Has Appreciative Teacher Audience at Summer School

Miss Mabel Rich, director of the educational department of the Victor Talking Machine Company, Montreal, yesterday afternoon gave the first of a series of special lectures in connection with the annual Summer school for teachers, which had its inception yesterday morning. The classroom was packed to the doors, the big attendance being a tribute to the popularity of Miss Rich's classes here last year.

The lectures will take place at the same place and same hour each afternoon this week, and will constitute a digest of a forty-lesson course which she uses over longer periods on occasion. Yesterday's covered five of these, viz., descriptive music, pure music, and the march, lullaby and gallop. For each group the lecturer had an excellent selection of Victor records for illustration, among the numbers being Mendelssohn's "Spinning Song," played by Rachmaninoff; Rubinstein's "Kamenoi-Ostrow" on the pipe organ; Saint-Saens' "The Swan" recorded by Pablo Casals, 'cellist; Macdowell's "To a Humming Bird;" Ketelby's "In a Chinese Temple Garden" played by the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra, "Dance of the Sugar-Plum Fairy" from Tschaikowsky's "Casse Noisette," played by the Philadelphia Orchestra, the celesta playing the solo part, the Toreador song from Bizet's "Carmen," played by the Philadelphia Symphony, Lieurance's "By the Waters of Minnetonka," played by the violin; and Liadow's "Music Box" by woodwind instruments.

The object of the whole course is to suggest to the teachers at the Summer school an idea of the best method of presenting a music lesson so that it will appeal to the child, and the lesson was arranged accordingly. The instructor aimed a number of lessons at her class, these intimating the kind of question which they, as teachers, should ask of their young pupils in order to stimulate interest and make the child an attentive listener. The teachers were advised to encourage the children to discuss the music and compare and contrast the different selections. The main problem of the teacher was to stimulate purposeful listening. There was a great difference between just hearing a thing and really listening to it.

The point upon which the speaker lingered longest was the discrimination of rhythms, using the march, gallop, and lullaby as examples. The class was called upon to define certain illustrations.

Miss Rich, who is going from Victoria to Edmonton and Winnipeg to conduct similar courses in connection with teachers' Summer schools there, will devote part of her lecture at 3.15 today to the symphony orchestra and its instruments (with illustrations of each), and tomorrow's will chiefly centre round boat songs, with emphasis on the similarity of rythms in this group of compositions in all countries. Thursday's lesson and lecture will be an operalogue of Verdi's "Il Trovatore."

Western Head Of C.P.R. Hotels Comes to City

Mr. H. F. Matthews, of Winnipeg, general manager of western hotels, Canadian Pacific Railway, has arrived to inspect the progress of the new wing under construction at the Empress Hotel.

Canadian Pacific mountain resorts are booked almost solidly for the remainder of the season, Mr. Matthews says. The company's famous hotels at Banff and Lake Louise are particularly active. Satisfactory progress is being made on the new wing of the Palliser Hotel, Calgary, to keep pace with the growth of the foothills city.

It is expected about fifty new rooms will be ready for the rush in connection with the Stampede now opening there.

Accompanied by Mr. J. W. Orrock, Montreal, Canadian Pacific engineer of buildings, and Mr. F. E. Halls, vice-president of Carter-Halls-Aldinger Co., building engineers, Mr. Matthews inspected the new 250-room wing at the Empress Hotel. The general manager expects the addition, or a large part of it, will be in service some time in September at the rate progress is being made.

Labor Members Are Appointed To Departments

LONDON, July 8.—G. M. Gillett, Labor member of Parliament for Finsbury, has been appointed a secretary of the Department of Overseas Trade; and S. P. Viant, Labor M.P. for West Willesden, has been appointed Assistant Postmaster-General.

Gillett was formerly a member of the Finsbury Borough Council and alderman of the London County Council. He has been Labor member for Finsbury since 1923.

Viant was vice-chairman of the National Conciliation Board for the building industry. He is a member of Willesden Borough Council and has been a member of Parliament for six years.

WEEK-END FATALITIES

MONTREAL, July 8.—A verdict of excusable homicide was rendered by a coroner's jury here today when the case of Raoul Dubois, shot by the night watchman of the Convent of the Good Shepherd at Laval des Rapides as he prowled the convent grounds Sunday, was heard today. Verdicts of accident death were returned in all of the other thirteen cases of violent deaths which occurred over the week end.

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK McCOY

THE SLEEPING CURE

The normal activity of the body consumes its strength more rapidly than can be replaced by food, sunshine and air. Because of this, the body requires rest and, especially sleep. Sleep gives the nervous system a chance to be rested in preparation for its next day's labor. By a lack of sleep, one can easily cripple this most important defence of the body.

It is up to the nervous system to stimulate the excretion of waste products, to exercise a selection and supervision of all food materials that enter the blood stream, and to give warning against the assaults of disease or the injuries from accidents. When the nervous system has become overworked or exhausted by insufficient sleep, it is naturally unable to perform these functions properly.

Every part of the body needs periods of activity and rest. Even the apparently ever-active heart has a resting period between each beat of approximately half a second. It actually rests about the same length of time as it works. The other muscles and organs of the body seem not to rest at such regular intervals but they, nevertheless, have periods of inactivity. It would be very awkward for the brain to have alternate periods of activity and rest so nature has arranged that the condition of being awake or being asleep occurs at greater intervals.

At our present stage of evolution it seems necessary for us to spend about one-third of our lives asleep during which time the body is able to rest and the nerve cells store up strength and nourishment. It is impossible to make a set rule of just how many hours one needs for sleep. The time required undoubtedly depends largely upon the temperament of the individual. When the system is toxic, more sleep is required.

You have probably noticed that after you miss a night or two of sleep you are very susceptible to colds or other diseases. This is because your nervous system does not stimulate the organs of excretion, such as the kidneys, liver and intestines, to eliminate the body's toxins as rapidly as they are formed. Enervation is undoubtedly one of the principal causes of the lowering of the body's resistance to disease, and the only method of overcoming this condition is to obtain plenty of good sound sleep and to avoid overexcitement, worry or other nerve-exhausting habits.

One of your dearest possessions is your vitality. If your sleep is disturbed, you will be handicapped in your activities on the following day. It is the height of folly to try to save money in buying cheap bedsprings and mattresses. The bed should be comfortable to sleep in. The mattress should have no lumps and should give freely to the position of the body. The bed covers should be warm, but not heavy enough to interfere with comfort. One real woolen blanket and one "down" or feather comforter above the sheets will give more warmth than a dozen cotton blankets or comforters and weigh much less.

Anyone trying to regain health should endeavor to sleep soundly and will require more sleep than the average healthy person. If you find it needful to sleep ten to twelve hours daily, you should by all means do so, but endeavor to so restore your health that you will not need to waste so much of your time in this manner.

Ticker Forecast

(A. E. BOND CORPORATION, LTD.)

NEW YORK, July 8.—Alliance Realty, as an extremely inactive issue, does not command particular attention and there are many who do not know of its existence. Several weeks ago we called attention to the position of this stock and advised purchases. Alliance Realty was then selling around 100 and immediately began moving upward. In the few weeks since we recommended this stock it has advanced about 30 points, thus bringing as good a profit as any security of a more speculative calibre. These gains, however, did not fully discount the position of this stock. Alliance Realty is a holding and operating company controlling a number of highly important real estate parcels in New York City. Among its subsidiaries is the Broad Exchange Building, located at the corner of Broad and Exchange Place, which has long been considered as the leading brokerage building in the Wall Street section. Other properties are also located in the financial section and in several growing residential sections. The valuations of the properties are held down to the minimum and a revaluation of these holdings would disclose equities of $200 or more per share of Alliance Realty. Rentals on the company's properties are bringing the highest prices and renewal of leases are made at considerable premium. U.S. Realty holds a substantial block of Alliance and the floating supply is very small. Trading is done on a ten-share lot basis and transactions of 50 to 100 shares are seldom recorded. The advance it registered last week was made on a turnover of about 30 shares a day. The strong equities behind it and the scarcity of offerings would bring still higher levels to the stock and we advise additional purchases.

A week ago we predicted that Dupont would break away from General Motors and start a movement of its own. On July 2 we recommended Dupont around 165, and on July 5 Dupont crossed 200. The rapid gains of this issue may bring some profit taking in the near future but on the whole there is little inclination on the part of the majority of holders of Dupont to sell their stock no matter how high it goes. They have learned from experience that this is a stock which is difficult to repurchase at a substantial discount. Once Dupont crossed 200, it has always gone higher no matter how many times the stock has been split up. The latest split up is of rather recent origin and therefore no immediate development of this kind can be anticipated. Dupont, however, discounts events in advance. Dupont will sell above 300 before a new split up will be effected. It will take some time before these levels are reached, but patience always pays with Dupont. In the meantime some profit taking can be looked for and the opportunities to buy the stock at somewhat lower levels should not be overlooked.

The decline in volume of offerings, when the market began to show realization tendencies last Friday and in the first hour of Saturday, pointed unmistakably to a resumption of the advance, and this took place in the final hour of Saturday's session. The confident tone at the closing should have its influence on the opening prices today, and we look for a broader buying wave to develop this week. The market apparently is not ready for a profit taking move and the public will enter the market this week with large buying orders. Judging by the past record, the market had apparently reached a top, and we believe it is wise to ignore past records, at least for the time being.

Industrial reports for the second quarter are now making their appearance, and they should show new records in earnings and expansion. With reports of new records, we see no reason why the market should not continue making new highs. We are frank in saying that we are even more bullish at these top prices than we have been earlier, when the outlook was not as clearly defined as it is today. Six weeks ago there was some reason for pessimism. This was the break in grain prices. Now that the farmer is assured high prices for his crop the country is assured of continued prosperity. The record-breaking activity reported by the Ford Motor Company is probably the best barometer of conditions in the rural districts, and when the country's buying power appears to remain at its highest level, the market will continue making new peaks. We remain partial to railroad stocks. With all the advances recorded by these issues they are still selling at only ten or twelve times their reported earnings, and probably less than ten times their actual earnings. The oil stocks have not done well lately but a recovery in this group can be anticipated. The more conservative oil stocks are decidedly attractive today. We believe these stocks will bring substantial profits in the near future. Issues which commanded the market's attention last week should continue in the limelight today, and buying some of the leaders at the opening prices is advisable.

Atchison gained about 40 points in the last six weeks and may be considered as a good start. We emphasize the word start, because Atchison is worth nearer $300 per share than it sells for at present. Profit taking in this issue, however, can be looked for, but no material decline is expected. Even if one buys Atchison at the market his paper loss, if any, should be negligible. We advise buying Atchison today and increasing holdings, if the stock is obtainable at somewhat lower levels.

Postum, endorsed by us on June 29, led the market to recovery on Saturday and promises to continue moving to higher levels. We understand that one of the largest investment trusts in the country has been accumulating Postum during the recent break and expects to hold the stock until it reaches $100. The purchases of this trust were of very substantial dimensions and have reduced the floating supply of the issue to a very considerable extent. The stock will soon be known as the General Food Corporation and will participate in important mergers of this group. Postum is still attractive, even at the present high level and should be bought.

Consolidated Gas is one of the more conservatively priced issues and was able to withstand profit-taking in this group in a better form than many other issues. On Saturday, Gas displayed stubborn resistance to large offerings, and apparently indicates the completion of the profit taking wave. The stock may see-saw for a little while, but before long the advance should be resumed. We recommend buying Gas for a turn.

Eastman Kodak crossed 200 and moved higher on Saturday, justifying our predictions made on July 3. We look for very unimportant reactions in this stock and then a resumption of the advance. It is understood that the stock will be split up on a basis of three for one, with a $3.50 dividend on the new stock. A rumor which appears to us to be premature would have Duponts being in the market for this stock, with the idea of ultimately merging it with their company. We are willing to ignore this rumor and advise additional purchases on the basis of its own merits.

CONVENTION TRAVELS

THREE RIVERS, July 8.—The city of Three Rivers today acted as host to members of the tenth annual conference of the Canadian Teachers' Federation. The delegates arrived last night from Montreal, on the first stage of their tour of the industrial centres of the province. Their tour takes the form of a traveling convention.

Transfer of Resources

WINNIPEG, July 8.—Hon. Charles Stewart, Federal Minister of the Interior, and Hon. D. C. MacKenzie, Manitoba Minister of Mines, today discussed details connected with the return of the natural resources of the province.

The transfer in a general way has been agreed upon, Mr. Stewart said. It was hoped that both the Dominion House and the Manitoba Legislature would pass concurrent legislation at their next sessions which would mean the completion of the transfer, he added.

Mr. Stewart is on annual inspection visits to parks and Dominion land offices in the West and will join Deputy Minister Corey in Vancouver.

"Lady, don't you know the difference between a walk and a sprint?"

EXPERTS SEE TIN ORE VEINS

DISCOVERY OF STANNITE IN SNOWFLAKE DEPOSIT IS EXAMINED

Veins Are to Be Found Running Parallel to Bedding of Sediments

Considerable interest has been aroused by the discovery of stannite, a tin-bearing mineral, in a vein in the Snowflake deposit situated in the Revelstoke district of British Columbia. After making a brief examination of this property in company with the consulting engineer of the Snowflake Mining Company, Dr. V. Dolmage, of the Geological Survey of Canada, reports that the vein in which the stannite occurs is one of a number of large and persistent parallel quartz veins which can be traced for several miles along the steep mountain sides of this rugged district. It outcrops at elevations of 5,500 to 6,000 feet, six miles north of a point on the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, twenty miles east of Revelstoke, and is reached by a good horse trail.

The veins occur in black, highly carbonaceous, in places graphitic, argillites. These are part of a thick series of quartzites, greenstones, argillites and limestones which occupy almost this entire region and are part of a still larger group of metamorphosed rocks widely distributed in British Columbia, and considered to be of precambrian age.

These sediments are intruded by graphitic rocks two stocks of which lie five or six miles north of the tin deposit, and on eight miles to the south, and lit par lit injections, of which lie within three miles or less of the deposit.

The presence in the area of so many intrusions of closely related, granitic rocks, strongly suggests the probability of the presence at considerable depths of a very large body of similar rock, of which the smaller intrusions are mere appendices, and which was probably the source of the solutions which deposited the tin and other metals.

The main veins are parallel to the bedding of the sediments and vary from three to fifteen feet in width. In all the veins the gangue mineral is quartz. The metallic minerals are pyrite, galena, stannite, zinc-blende, tetrahedrite, scheelite, wolframite, ruby silver (proustite), chalcopyrite and native silver. Chalcopyrite and native silver are present in only minute quantities and are visible only under the microscope. In the No. 1 vein on the Snowflake property stannite is present in almost all the exposed parts of the vein where other sulphides are present, and in the newest workings, extending from the long low-level tunnel, it is very abundant. In a raise, which at the time of the examination was up eighty feet from a drift east of the main tunnel, it is more abundant than any of the other sulphides except pyrite. The vein in the raise is from four to seven feet wide and in places it appears to contain as much as 10 per cent or more stannite. At the time of the examination tin had not been discovered in any of the other veins of the district but since then stannite is reported to have been found in other veins on the Snowflake and also on the adjoining Regal Silver property.

Million Dollars' Worth of Opium Found in Trunks

Discovered in Vice-Consul's Wife's Baggage—San Francisco Officers Also Find Large Quantities of Lace and Silk Upon Which No Duty Had Been Paid

Consular Seals Broken; Attorney Makes Protest

SAN FRANCISCO, July 8.—Approximately 3,000 tins of opium, declared worth $1,000,000 at retail, were found by customs officials late today in the luggage of Mrs. Ying Kao, wife of the Chinese vice-consul here.

Officials opened the seven large wardrobe trunks and four suitcases, in the presence of the Chinese vice-consul and his wife.

Continuing investigation over the protests of Mrs. Kao's attorneys, Customs Agents John W. Smith and Robert Harris broke the seals which under usual procedure pass the trunks without a check by officials, and investigated the contents of the trunks, which were held on arrival here from China.

In addition to the opium, the officers said they discovered hundreds of pieces of expensive silks, and fine laces, upon which no duty had been paid.

Three pieces of baggage, which Mrs. Kao claimed were her own personal belongings, were not searched, but were sealed awaiting word from Washington as to their disposal. Mrs. Kao was ignorant of the contents, she told officers, saying they were the property of friends in China, who influenced her to use her diplomatic privileges to bring baggage into this country.

The new customs regulations put into effect in the United States in connection with opium being smuggled into the country aboard steamships may mean the confiscation of the liner upon which Mrs. Ying Kao took passage. Only recently an incident of this kind happened, but not of such great magnitude. The seriousness of the offence lies in the fact that the opium was being smuggled into the country by the wife of the vice-consul.

Dollar Ss. Line To Finance Radio Station in China

SAN FRANCISCO, July 8.—Officials of the Dollar Steamship Lines here today confirmed dispatches from Shanghai, China, stating the Dollar Company would finance construction of a short-wave radio station at Shanghai. The station will be used jointly by the Chinese Nationalist Government and the Dollar Company, the dispatches said.

TRAGEDY FEARED

PRINCE RUPERT, July 8.—With the finding of the seine boat Kikko on the beach at Skidegate, fears are expressed that the Japanese crew and M. Jukiwara, owner of the boat, and of the saltery at Queen Charlotte City, have been drowned. It is thought that the boat was on its way to Queen Charlotte City when it was caught in a southeast gale, and may have struck a reef. Attached to the wreck were two anchors with cable and line. Near the craft was found clothing bearing the name of H. Fujiwara.

$15 Portland to San Francisco now good on four trains

Low cost coach fares to California have proved so popular that their use has been extended to all trains carrying coaches.

Formerly good only on the "Coach Special," these fares are now good on the "Shasta," "West Coast," "Oregonian" and "Klamath" (formerly the "Coach Special").

Tickets good on tourist sleepers

Coach fares have also been made good for use on Tourist Sleeping cars. This permits an unusual saving. Between Portland and San Francisco, for example, the coach and Tourist fare ticket saves nearly half the regular cost.

$28 Portland to Los Angeles

Tickets good on all trains carrying coaches and for use in Tourist Sleepers.

Explosion Occurs on Board Vessel Unidentified Off Yarmouth

LONDON, July 8.—Identity of a vessel reported by Lloyd's to have been sunk by an explosion near Smith Knoll Lightship, off the Norfolk coast, has not been established. The Danish ship Arneberg, which wirelessed the information that a vessel unknown to it had foundered, was cruising in the vicinity, and the minesweeper Selkirk and other craft joined the search, but without finding a trace of the vessel or those aboard it.

The explosion was supposed to have been about thirty miles off Great Yarmouth.

THREE LINERS ARE DUE TODAY

ARABIA MARU IS BRINGING DELEGATION OF LUMBERMEN FROM JAPAN

Tyndareus Will Load 700,000 Feet of Lumber—Dorothy Alexander to Sail for Alaska

Three deep-sea liners are due here at Rithet's Piers today. The Arabia Maru is reported due from Oriental ports at noon to discharge 100 tons of freight and debark some eighteen passengers before proceeding to Seattle.

Among the passengers on board are Mrs. E. Nakamura, wife of the European manager of the Osaka Shosen Kaisha, who is en route to join her husband at headquarters in London.

Mr. K. Yamamoto, manager in the United States of the Tamacho Lumber Export Company, is another passenger on board. He is heading a delegation of Japanese lumber importers who will make a tour of mills in the Pacific Northwest.

Another ship due today is the Blue Funnel liner Tyndareus, which is expected to arrive early this morning from Seattle to load 700,000 feet of lumber before sailing for the Orient.

On her third voyage of the season to Alaska the Pacific Steamship Company's vessel Dorothy Alexander will arrive here from Seattle at 3 o'clock this afternoon, and, after remaining in port for three hours, during which period she will take on passengers and allow those who embarked in Seattle to see the city, she will sail northbound at 6 o'clock.

Fur Production For Last Season Shows Decrease

OTTAWA, July 8.—The raw fur production of Canada for the season 1927-28 was considerably less in quantity, but only slightly less in value than the production of the previous season, according to a statement issued today by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

The total number of pelts of fur-bearing animals, comprising pelts of animals taken by trappers and pelts of ranch-bred animals, for the season 1927-28 was 3,592,700, valued at $18,641,753, compared with 4,289,223 pelts, valued at $18,864,128, in the season of 1926-27.

Muskrat is of chief importance with a total value in 1927-28 of $2,967,918, followed by silver fox with $2,363,200, beaver with $1,944,024, white fox with $1,627,447, red fox with $1,425,468, mink with $1,259,476, and marten with $1,108,991.

Ontario is first among the provinces in order of value of raw fur production with a total value for the season 1927-28 of $4,401,880.

The Poet—"I see you have read my little effort. I'm calling it 'After Rain.' Do you think that appropriate?"

"Yes—it's slush."

MACKEREL CAUGHT OFF WEST COAST

Seiners Make First Catch by Net of Mackerel in Fishing History—Small Pilchard Not Reported

TOFINO, July 8.—Mackerel have been caught by seiners in bulk for the first time in the history of fishing on the West Coast of Vancouver Island. Fishermen brought in several loads of mackerel to the fish scow this week.

As yet the pilchards are not running in large schools. A few more small catches have been made off Clayoquot Sound, but otherwise the fleet of seventy seine boats waiting for the run to start is lying idle.

A few small catches were also reported at Nootka a few days ago. The big run is not expected to start until about the middle of next week, which was about the time it started last year.

NEW ZEALAND CITY GROWING RAPIDLY

SYDNEY, Australia, July 8.—Excepting only Brisbane, the capital of Queensland, Auckland, New Zealand, in the decade 1917 to 1927, was the fastest-growing city in the two Dominions. Surveys of the populations of Australia and New Zealand for that period show, however, that the growth of other New Zealand cities was slower than those of Australia.

The following table shows the populations of First, the capitals of the six Australian States and then of the four principal centres in New Zealand, with the percentage of increase within the 1917-27 period.

PRINCE GEORGE IN COLLISION

PASSENGERS NUMBERING 240 TRANSFERRED SAFELY TO PATROL BOAT AGASSIZ

Accident Happens in Dense Fog Sixty-Five Miles East of Boston

BOSTON, July 8.—The steamship Prince George, bound from Yarmouth, N.S., for Boston, with 240 passengers, was in collision with the coastguard patrol boat Agassiz, in a dense fog sixty-five miles east of Boston Light yesterday. All passengers were safely transferred from the Prince George to the Agassiz and only one, Miss Seretha Nickerson, of Greenwich, Conn., was injured. She was slightly bruised after the accident. Two members of the patrol boat's crew were severely hurt, Orlo D. Howsker, seaman, who was at the wheel when the ships came together, and Alfred R. Johnson, boatswain's mate, first class.

The Prince George was struck on her port bow by the coastguard boat. The impact ripped a jagged hole in the liner's steel side, six feet wide and extending below the waterline. The stem of the Agassiz was crumpled, but she did not take much water.

The Prince George's ten lifeboats were lowered within fifteen minutes after the alarm was sounded and the ship put about and came alongside the Agassiz. Gangplanks were rigged and the passengers, many of them with all their baggage, made their way aboard the patrol boat.

WEST COAST SERVICE

Now effective—The steamer leaves for Port Alice and way ports on the 1st, 11th and 21st of each month.

GALA DAY IS HELD AT LUXTON

Women's Institute and Busy Bees' Health Centre Organize Event

LUXTON, July 8 — A most successful gala day was held in the hall on Friday by the combined efforts of the Women's Institute and the Busy Bees Health Club.

The Women's Institute was responsible for the tea, which was served by Mesdames A. Hobbs, W. Paton, F. Goodsell and D. Welch. They also arranged a very successful flower show, the judging being done by Miss Savary and the results were as follows: Plant in pot—1, Mrs Stockland; 2, Mrs. Harlah. Collection of potted plants—1, Mrs. Woodruff; 2, Mrs. Baxter. Bowl of flowers—1, Mrs. J. Trace; 2, Mrs. Baxter. Sweet peas—1, Mrs. Masters; 2, Mrs. Hutchinson. Collection of garden flowers—1, Mrs. Baxter; 2, Mrs. Trace. Sr. Roses—1, Mrs. Cooper; 2, Mrs. Morrow. Water lilies—1, Mrs. Shiela Tuite. Pansies—1, Mrs. Baxter; 2, Mrs. Brown.

Children's classes: Buttonhole bouquet—1, Jack Trace; 2, Norma Macleod. Collection wild flowers—1, Mary McRae; 2, Ruth Anderson. Decorated table—1, Mary McRae; 2, Shirley Smith. Flower basket—1, John Caldon. Bird house—1, Edwin Anderson; 2, Gilbert Anderson.

There were also two mystery prizes, which were won by Mesdames Masters and Oliver.

The Busy Bees put on an excellent programme under direction of Miss Kelly and Mrs. Ruddle, as follows: "O Canada", welcome, Elsie McLeod; "The Gingerbread Man," K. Oliver, Wishart Welch, Fairy Welch, Norma McLeod, Elsie Sutt, Violet Bailey, Faith Oliver; reading, "The Scarecrow," Violet Bailey and Billy McRae; song, "The Grasshopper Green"; song, "May Day"; action song, "Here We Go Round the Mulberry Bush," tiny tots, reading, "A Hindu Fable," John Caldon and Catherine Hutchinson; song, "The Violet"; song, "The Flag," Elsie Hutchinson, Sandy Caldon, Jack Oliver, George Hutchinson.

Miss Kelly tendered thanks to all who so readily helped the club and mentioned that it was the sixth anniversary of the club.

Mrs. Welch, the president of the Women's Institute, presented Miss Kelly and Mrs. Ruddle with gifts on behalf of the Institute as a very slight mark of their appreciation of the work done by them for the children. Mrs. Welch also presented Mrs. Cooper with a life membership in the Institute as a small token of their appreciation of her interest and work since the Institute was started in the district.

Salt Spring Golf

SALT SPRING, July 8 —The first members' handicap competition of the Salt Spring Island Golf Club was held last week under ideal weather conditions and proved to every way successful. Most of the playing members turned out and some very close scores were made. Nine holes only were played by the ladies, Mrs. T. Chadsworth winning with a score of 51, Mrs. Cecil Springford, second. Mr. A. Ingle won the men's competition with 78, and was awarded the cup. Mr. C. W. Baker, second. The ladies received suitable prizes. The Club is having a very good year and the membership is steadily increasing. Further improvements have been effected on the course.

RECITAL POSTPONED

LANGFORD, July 8 —By order of Dr. Donald, district health officer, the recital to be held on Wednesday, July 10, by the pupils of Mrs. M. Simpson, has been indefinitely postponed.

Her Father: You have been a very naughty girl and I'm going to spank a lady!

Little Elsie: Would you strike a lady?

Nanaimo Women Golfers Have Successful Month

NANAIMO, July 8.—The ladies of the Nanaimo Golf Club had a very successful June month in golfing. The month of June being very suitable golfing weather the ladies were lucky as usual. The medal was won by Mrs. Mitchell after her competition by Mrs. Stevenson and Mrs. Gill.

A team of eight came down from Courtenay on June 25, and a very enjoyable time was spent, the Nanaimo ladies being the victors. The following day, Wednesday, June 26, a hidden hole competition was played, the winner being Mrs. Gladolm.

During July and August the monthly competitions are discontinued but in their place on Tuesday evenings twilight mixed foursomes are to be played.

Tofino Celebrates

TOFINO, July 2 (By Mail) —Dominion Day was celebrated in Tofino with a big crowd gathered for the water sports. Over twenty-five canoe races and their tenders were tied up at the wharves, and many Indians from the reserves and the Kelsemat Mission children attended. The day was grey and unfortunately ended in heavy rain, but not before most of the events, including the greasy pole, the canoe and skiff races had been run off.

The most interesting event of the day was a tug-of-war between local fishermen and a team of Indians from Opitsah for a cup presented by Mr. Berryman, of Clayoquot Sound cannery. This event was pulled at Clayoquot on May 24, but no decision was come to. On this day the teams were so evenly matched that four pulls of three and a half minutes were needed to decide, when the Indians won by a slight margin. The prizes, many of which were given by local firms, were presented by Mrs. J. F. Cooper, of Tofino in the evening a big dance was held at the Legion Hall, which was crowded to its capacity.

Pass Examinations

NANAIMO, July 7.—All the candidates from the studio of Mr. J. Leslie Reynolds, L.C.M., were successful in passing the examinations held by D. J. Jenkins, Mus. Doc. T.U.T. for the above college. Results: Advanced senior, Alice Jenkins, first class, senior, Marion Nichol, honors; advanced intermediate, Sadie Colclough, honors; intermediate, Margie Vipond, honors, Pauline Cull, honors, Louie Ratcliffe, honors, Margaret Addison, first class. Doris Rutherworth, first class.

GETTING ON IN LIFE

Mrs. Tugson had bought a pressure-saver on the hire purchase system. For month after month she had visited the shop which sold it to her, handing over her measly instalments. Her visits were so numerous that she became quite well known to the assistant who served her.

At last the time arrived when Mrs. Tugson had paid in full. The assistant made her a touching farewell as he gave her the receipt.

"I shall miss you, Mrs. Tugson," he said. "You've been such a regular customer. Er—how is the baby getting on now?"

Mrs. Tugson gave a satisfied smile.

"Very well, thank you," she replied. "He's getting married next week."

ATTEMPTED THEFT CASE STOOD OVER

Russell Jordon Remanded for Week —Gunner White Fined for Not Attending Brigade Parade

Russell Jordon was arraigned before Magistrate George Jay in the Victoria police court yesterday to face a charge of attempting to rob Opitsah for a cup presented by Mr. Berryman, of Clayoquot Sound cannery. This event was pulled at Clayoquot on May 24, but no decision was come to. On this day the teams were so evenly matched that four pulls of three and a half minutes were needed to decide, when the Indians won by a slight margin. The prizes, many of which were given by local firms, were presented by Mrs. J. F. Cooper, of Tofino in the evening a big dance was held at the Legion Hall, which was crowded to its capacity.

A fine of $25 was imposed on Mrs. Jean Stevens, who was convicted on a charge of driving her automobile to the common danger on Esquimalt Road on June 24. The defendant pleaded not guilty through counsel, Mr. R. C. Lowe. George Bishop was fined a similar amount for a common danger offence on June 24 on Esquimalt Road, to which he pleaded guilty.

Weston Young was fined $5 for failing to produce his driver's licence for inspection by a police officer.

Pleading guilty to driving to the common danger on Esquimalt Road on July 2, Ruth Carr was fined $25. Donald Stewart was fined $20 for a common danger offence on Lyall Street on June 24. The defendant entered a plea of not guilty through counsel, Mr. Carew Martin.

His Honor dismissed the case of Calvin C. Kickerson, who was charged with failing to stop his automobile at the rear of a street car on June 26.

Harold Cussen and A. Greensmith were each fined $10 for driving their motor cars to the common danger on Esquimalt Road. Both motorists pleaded not guilty to the charges.

Friend Wife—Don't misunderstand me, my dear; I weigh my words before I speak.

Friend Hubby (scale inspector)—Well, nobody can accuse you of giving short weights.

This deal illustrates another one of those situations which arise not infrequently wherein a Grand Slam, although not biddable, is made by a fortuitous opening and lay of the cards.

SALIENT POINTS OF THE BIDDING

Auction Bidding: East has a sound Fourth Hand Spade bid, holding 3½ Quick Tricks and the probability of six tricks in all, assuming partner to hold the normal expectancy of support, to wit, the probability of three tricks including at least three cards of the trump (Spade) suit. It may be of interest to note how East figures his hand to be worth 3½ Probable Tricks: Spades, 4½ Probable Tricks, the half representing the chance that the King may lie to the right or to the left of him. Hearts, 1 Probable Trick with strong plus values for the 10-9 and a possibility of establishing the 5 for a long trick. Diamonds, ½ Probable Trick, depending upon the position of the Ace. Clubs none, but a plus value for the Jack-2, which may or may not be usable depending on partner's precise holding. Thus East holds the probability of six tricks together with strong plus values as stated above.

Contract Bidding: Following East's Fourth Hand Spade bid, showing as it does at least six Probable Tricks inclusive of at least three Quick Tricks, his partner has either two raises or none. The point here is that if West does not hold the average expectancy of support included at least three Spades, he cannot assist at all, but with such average holding can raise the bid to three odd in view of East's original Fourth Hand bid. West figures his hand as follows: Spades, 1 supporting trick for the half chance of ruffing a third round of suit; Diamonds, two supporting tricks for the Ace, the double valuation applied as the Ace should not only take a trick in itself but may also provide an entry for taking a needed finesse and may further establish long cards either in own hand or in hand of partner, which cannot be definitely valued in advance. So figured, West has 3½ supporting tricks which, with three Spades to an honor, justifies a jump assist to three odd, following which East carries the bid to a game contract.

THE PLAY

South leads initially the Queen of Diamonds, the correct lead in this situation, which East wins with the King and returns a Diamond. South playing the Jack, won by Ace in Dummy. A third Diamond lead, trumped by East, sets up two Diamonds in Dummy.

Declarer now takes three rounds of trump, running the third trick with the King, and lays down Dummy's lone good Diamond, discarding thereon his two losing Clubs. Next he takes the Heart finesse, leading the Queen from Dummy and whether North covers or not, it will be seen that he makes the remaining five tricks, to wit, 4 Hearts and the last trump. Thus a Grand Slam is made by virtue of everything going "just right." The adverse Spades split 3-3, the adverse Spades split 3-3, Diamonds in Bid Spades, the North's hand, and the refusal of South to lead initially his Club and headed as it is by the Ace-Queen. There is, of course, not the slightest justification for bidding a Slam on this deal, and if bid, a Slam is defeated as South's proper lead against a contract of six or seven is the Ace of Clubs.
